"Mystery Woman" Is Revealed As Scorned Wife

WILL CLEAR NAME

Former Prominent Banker
Startled New York by Sensational Charges of Alleged "Past" of Life.

ALLEGATIONS FALSE, STATES MRS. HARRIS

Noted Southern Beauty
Says She Is in Atlanta in Interest of Case but Refuses Details.

After registering at the Ansley hotel for four days and successfully withstanding a constant onslaught of reporters from local newspapers, beautiful Mrs. Eleanor Elaine Lee Harris, who gained the title of "mystery woman" as the result of her elusiveness, Friday night in an exclusive statement to The Constitution revealed her identity as the wife of Beverly Harris, a former vice president of the National City Bank of New York and a principal in the suit for annulment of their marriage which for two years has proved the sensation of New York.

Atlanta generally will remember the Harris case, which was rivaled only in point of sensation by the Stillman case and is featured by the fact that Stillman was president of the same bank with which Harris was connected as vice president.

Mrs. Harris, a beautiful woman of about 27, was branded by her millionaire husband in his annulment proceedings as a scarlet woman of the underworld and a half-caste. Harris, who is a wealthy oil man and rancher of Texas, it will be generally remembered from prominently displayed news articles, charged that his wife was a "love child," that she had falsely represented herself to be a member of a blue-blooded southern family and that she was a product of the demi-monde.

To these charges Mrs. Harris, Friday night in Atlanta, breaking a long silence during which she declares she has been on a pilgrimage to collect evidence and clear her name, voiced a heated denial in the form of an affidavit subscribed to on August 18 in St. Louis.

She denied that she had made any misrepresentation to her husband concerning her family connection, but proceeded to give evidence in detail to show that her family is the Lee family of Tennessee.

In reply to charges that she had had improper relations with a man specifically named by her husband, Mrs. Harris produced numerous affidavits to show that her relations with the man in question were blameless to the certain knowledge of the parties signing the affidavits.

Mrs. Harris also claims that one of the men who swore to her alleged connection with the underworld made a death-bed confession repudiating his entire testimony and confessing that

It's rather an uncomfortable feeling, isn't it, when the agent shouts these words at you and you gaze at the midnight train rounding the curve toward the city?

Midnight at a country station. No more trains and a two-mile walk back to the village hostelry.

If this certain traveler had read the railroad schedule more closely—he'd have been there on time.

Don't let some Atlanta resident shout "Too Late," at you, when you inquire about some choice bargain offered for sale in The Constitution want ad section.

SAYS SHE THREATENED

Mrs. Evans States That

Her Then End His Life.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.
Charges that Mrs. Hazeline C. Evans, former policeman, held in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband, Patrolman W. W. Evans, at their home early Thursday morning, had previously threatened to kill Evans and their two children, and that she was guilty of improper conduct with other men, were revealed in a petition for divorce filed by Evans on May 10, 1923.

Disclosure of this petition, which was withdrawn by Evans a few weeks ago after being held pending in De Kalb superior court for several months, was the feature development of Friday in the sensational shooting. Informed of this new angle in the case, Mrs. Evans, in her cell in the De Kalb county jail, denied that she had threatened the lives of her husband and children and asserted that instead of "providing the streets" as Evans charged, she was working in down town hotels earning money to supplement his income.

Mrs. Evans charges.
Mrs. Evans, who has steadily adhered to the declaration that her husband was shot in a scuffle while attempting to kill her, also affirmed her belief that when her husband produced the weapon he did so with intent to kill her and then take his own life.

She declared that her husband was heavily involved in debt and subject to fits of deep despondency, during which he often threatened to commit suicide. While thus despondent, she alleged, her husband was accustomed to start drinking, which only served to increase his state of melancholia.

This latter statement was borne out by Captain A. J. Holcombe, of the De Kalb county police.

Circular Saw Inflicts
Cuts on Youth.

One man was killed and seven persons injured in accidents Friday. An elevator figured in the death while a circular saw seriously injured a 17-year-old high school boy. Six were hurt by automobiles.

C. D. Yancy, 24, of 11 Delaware avenue, Hayes station, was killed by the elevator. The accident occurred in the plant of the Atlantic Ice & Coal corporation on Piedmont avenue.

Frank Dean, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Dean, 1630 Ponce de Leon avenue, was seriously hurt by the circular saw.

Those injured in auto accidents were Willie Manning, 16, of 97 Kelly street; John Foster, East Hunter street; S. M. McCollum, 9 Homer street; Guyman and Helen Dees, children of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dees, 137 Jefferson street; Cecil Fulcher, 18, of 45 Augusta avenue.

Yancy was helper in the operation of a freight elevator in the building. The elevator was engaged in hoisting cement and other materials used in laying floors in the building.

MEXICO IS GIVEN
FULL RECOGNITION
BY UNITED STATES

Embassies at Washington and Mexico City to Be Restored for First
Time Since 1920.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Washington, August 31.—The United States and Mexico have agreed to resume full diplomatic relations.

Formal announcement of the agreement was made today by the state department. The restoration of relations carries with it full recognition by the United States of the government of President Obregon. It results from the negotiations recently concluded in Mexico City by Charles B. Warren and John Barton Payne.

The American embassy at Mexico City and the Mexican embassy here are to be restored at once to official standing for the first time since the collapse of the Carranza regime in 1920, and all pending claims will be submitted to specially appointed commissioners for settlement.

The signing of two claims conventions provided for in the report of the American commissioners will be one of the first acts after the resumption of relations. These conventions have been approved by the two governments and the affixing of signatures is expected to take place within two or three weeks.

Acting Secretary Phillips announced the "resolution to renew diplomatic negotiations" in a formal statement issued at noon. It follows: "The government of the United States and the government of Mexico in view of the reports and recommendations that their respective commissioners submitted as a result of the American-Mexican conferences held in the City of Mexico from May 14, 1923, to August 15, 1923, have resolved to renew diplomatic relations between them, and therefore pending the appointment of ambassadors, they are taking the necessary steps to accredit, formally their respective charges d'affaires."

The designation of charges d'affaires by the two governments is expected to be made without delay. At the Mexican embassy it was said that no instructions had yet been received from Mexico City and therefore it had not been determined when it would be possible to present credentials at the state department.

It is understood that instructions formally designating an American charge d'affaires at Mexico City will go forward in the course of a day or so.

In Line with Play.
Recognition of the government of President Obregon is regarded here as in line with the American policy, stated through successive administrations, of giving disinterested help to a friendly country so long as the rights of Americans are properly safeguarded.

The announced aim of the Washington government has been directed consistently to such a course, although often with difficulty because of outrages upon the persons and properties of American nationals in Mexico, and of discouraging international complications incident to a condition of revolution and civil war running over more than a decade.

The questions arising under this policy have been among the most delicate with which the United States had had to deal, and have involved military patrols along the border, naval and military expeditions into Mexico, embargoes upon the exportation of munitions, and a succession of

With but five dissenting votes, the Atlanta Bar association, at its semi-annual business meeting Friday morning, adopted the report of its grievance and executive committees, which sustained the charges made by Attorney Edgar Latham against Judge G. H. Howard, newly appointed to the bench of the Fulton county superior court.

Following adjournment, officers of the association declined to say whether or not further action on Attorney Latham's charges would be taken by the association.

Mr. Latham and his friends, when seen Friday night, expressed themselves as entirely satisfied with the action of the association, but declined to discuss the case more fully or make any predictions as to whether the matter will be carried any further or not.

The five members of the association who voted against adoption of the report were John P. Haunson, J. K. Jordan, Frank Hooper Sr., Claude Rowe and Colonel P. H. Brewster. Colonel Brewster, rising to explain his vote, asserted that the bar association had no jurisdiction in the matter and suggested that the association name a committee of its members to carry the fight to its proper solution but adjourn without taking official action as a body.

Wood Ruled Out.
J. O. Wood, local attorney and editor of "The Searchlight," who is also a member of the legislature from Fulton county, attempted to secure the floor in order to make a statement in support of Judge Howard, but was ruled out of order by President James A. Branch on the ground that he is not a member of the bar.

SPECIAL COACH TO CARRY FOUR ENTRANTS

Homage which has been showered upon Miss Frances Thayer, 17-year-old blonde beauty of 132 Park drive, who will bear the title "Miss Atlanta" in the National Beauty Tournament next week in Atlantic City, Friday took a wide scope.

While hundreds continued to throng about her automobile in the shopping district and pack the pit of the Howland theater, news came that the Pennsylvania railroad has assigned her a private compartment in a special coach provided for the beauty contestants from Atlanta, Washington, Baltimore and Wilmington.

The beauty queens of these four cities will assemble in Washington Tuesday at noon, and will be transported from the national capital in a special coach over the rails of the Pennsylvania system.

Final details of the transportation feature of "Miss Atlanta's" trip were worked out by representatives of The Constitution and of the Southern railroad Friday afternoon. "Miss Atlanta" will entrain at the Brookwood station at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon and will proceed to Washington on train No. 30 of the Southern.

Mediator Announces "Status Quo" After Conference—Labor Chieftain Says "Walkout Is On."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Philadelphia, August 31.—While the leaders of the anthracite operators and organized mine workers were parleying at the state capitol today in an endeavor to reach an agreement on a new wage contract to replace the one that expires tonight, the army of men and boys in the hard coal fields gathered up their tools and mine supplies and quit the collieries not to return until an understanding shall have been reached. Approximately 155,000 men are affected by the suspension.

Reports from the coal fields tonight indicated that the suspension would be complete, as no coal company has yet announced it will attempt to mine while the suspension is in effect.

The suspension order of the United Mine Workers, after saying that the officers of the union had been unable to arrive at any understanding as affecting wages or conditions of employment, stated that the entire membership of the union in the anthracite fields "is advised that no contract being in effect, a suspension of mining will automatically take place at midnight August 31."

The order expressed the hope the union's plans and policies will be carried out "lawfully, peaceably and with that proper spirit of cooperation and unity so necessary at this time."

Charge Gasoline War.
Reports from the western section of the United States indicate that a gasoline war is in progress, and private corporations charge an attempt on the part of large interests to force them out of business. This was reported in the case of the large cut in retail prices, August 18, in South Dakota, North Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Illinois, Indiana and the northern part of Oklahoma.

Following on the heels of the slashes in the middle-west came an announcement by R. N. Reed, of the Reed-Oil company, that he expected immediate reductions in Atlanta of from two to three cents, but for some reason the cut did not come and there has been no reduction in Georgia until the present.

Georgia Prices.
A fluctuating motor fuel market has been prevalent in Atlanta during the year. On January 1, 1923, the retail market was 21 cents a gallon; February 5, there was a rise of 2 cents; February 26, another 2 cent rise was recorded. Then a downward trend in the price was noted. May 15, there was a drop from 25 cents to 24 cents; May 23, another one-cent drop was announced; June 11, a one-cent drop was recorded; August 14, the 21 cent price was again reached. This was the same price which had prevailed on January 1. Gasoline prices advanced from 21 cents to 25 cents from January 1 to February 25, but it took from February 25 to August 14 to reach 21 cents again. The cut today is the lowest retail mark of the year, the lowest previous price being 21 cents.

Effort Is Made to Obtain
Bond for Three Hudson
Brothers Held on Flogging Charge.

Macon, Ga., August 31.—Ollie M. Perry, flogged by a gang of unmasked men on the night of August 5, walked into a little fruit stand on Cotton avenue and positively identified the proprietor, J. F. Alexander, as one of the men who kidnaped him.

Three warrants, charging Alexander with pointing a pistol at another, flogging and with carrying a pistol concealed and without a license, were immediately issued in municipal court, and served on the accused man.

Alexander tonight is being held in the Bibb county jail without bond. Deputies said that Alexander's only remark, some time after his arrest, was "you've got the wrong man."

Perry told the sheriff and his deputies after the whipping that there was one man in the party he would be able to identify if he ever saw him again. Perry's eyes met Alexander's eyes in the fruit stand today. Not a word passed between them, but to Sheriff Hicks, a few minutes later, Perry said:

"There's the man."

According to Perry's story, as told by the sheriff, Alexander headed the gang that rushed into his store on August 5. Alexander covering him with a pistol, while another man handcuffed him. Perry then was dragged to the door where a sack was thrust over his head and he was hauled away in an automobile and whipped almost to death.

Important developments are expected during the night. It was indicated by the activities of deputies following the arrest.

Efforts were being made to obtain bond for the three Hudsons also held in connection with floggings.

Corfu, Island of Corfu, August 31. (By the Associated Press.)—Corfu was occupied by the Italians this afternoon after a sharp bombardment in which at least 15 Greek civilians were killed and many wounded. The demand for the surrender of Corfu was given at 2 o'clock this afternoon and firing began at 5 o'clock. The police school was demolished and the old fort fired upon. In the fort there were many casualties among the refugees.

Orphans under the care of the American Near East relief were in serious danger from shell fire.

London, September 1.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Rome says it is reported that two classes of Italian reservists are being held in readiness to be called to the colors if this should be necessary.

"NO DISORDER," SAYS
FLEET COMMANDER.

Rome, August 31.—The commander in chief of the Italian fleet in a report to the minister of marine tonight announces the landing of Italian naval forces on the island of Corfu. The landing was effected without difficulty.

The report says at 6 o'clock this evening the Italian flag was flown from the old fortress, that a salute of 21 guns was fired amid the cheering of the Italian crew, and that the occupation of the town and the island resulted without disorder.

CHEESE EXHIBIT PLANNED AT FAIR TO AID INDUSTRY

Cheese exhibits from Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas having made a notable showing at the National Dairy show in Chicago last year, arrangements have been made for a competitive exhibit from these states at the Southeastern fair in October. It was announced Friday by Judge John S. Candler, chairman of the dairy products department of the fair.

The importance of the dairy industry is just being recognized in southern states," said Judge Candler, "and the great progress that has been made in this line within the last year should be enough to make optimists of those who think the boll weevil has ruined the south."

"A recent investigation discloses the fact that eight solid carloads of cheese is shipped into Atlanta each month from other states, and Georgians pay the freight. Farmers in other states got the money for the milk that went into all this cheese, and factories in other states made a profit on it, then the freight was added. The item of butter is even larger."

"There is no good reason why this should continue to be so," stated Judge Candler, "it is a leak in Georgia's finances that we are trying to stop. And while it is true that we are rapidly getting away from this condition, there is yet much to be done. Many Georgia cotton gins should be replaced by creameries. Our fair exhibits are part of the educational campaign to teach Georgians how well suited our land and climate is to profitable dairying."

Roberts Will Face Charge Saturday Of Pretty Divorcee

L. F. Roberts, of New York, will be arraigned in criminal division of Fulton superior court Saturday morning on statutory charges preferred against him by Mrs. Fannie Beck Baxter, pretty Atlanta divorcee, according to announcement Friday of George G. Finch, counsel for the defendant.

While an inmate of the Atlanta federal penitentiary two months ago, Roberts is alleged to have written a letter to Mrs. Baxter when he learned from newspaper accounts that she had attempted to end her life. A correspondence then followed.

When he was released from the penitentiary, Mrs. Baxter is said to have been waiting for him in a taxicab at the gates and took him to her home. Several days afterwards, Mrs. Baxter told officers that Roberts had proposed marriage to her, that she had accepted him, and that he then arranged a mock marriage. They lived together several days before she discovered that she was not legally wedded to him, she declares.

Winners in the BREAD PUDDING CONTEST

In announcing the winners in our Bread Pudding Contest we wish to thank the ladies for the interest manifested and say to them that we are more than gratified with the results.

We feel that in this contest we have made a move which will ultimately prove beneficial to many in the matter of economies in the home and the food problem.

Those who contributed cannot be taught by us, but from the recipes which they have submitted we are now in position to teach others how to prepare really delicious food from what is very often wasted.

And, too, through your efforts and interest there were many glad hearts last Sunday among those to whom fate has not been so kind by their being able to partake of the best food preparation by the best cooks in Atlanta.

COOPERATIVE FARM BODIES FLOURISH

Cooperative associations will market "considerably more" farm products in 1923 than last year, according to an official bulletin of the United States department of agriculture received here Friday.

While it is impossible to estimate how much business they will do, the report asserts, the fact new associations are being formed and old ones enlarged is ground for the belief the amount of the year's crops to be marketed cooperatively will exceed all former figures.

An important factor in promoting cooperative marketing is the improvement made in credit facilities recently. "First steps toward better credit accommodations for cooperatives were taken in 1921, when congress enlarged the powers of the war finance corporation, the report reads. Up to date that organization has authorized advances to cooperatives amounting to more than $100,000,000. Although only $38,500,000 of the money has been actually used, the fact that it was available has been a powerful beneficial influence, say officials of the department.

"Many cooperative associations are opening up lines of credit at the new intermediate credit banks, because the war finance corporation will cease making advances after February 22, next. It is believed the new institutions will function much as the war finance corporation has done in giving confidence and loaning up additional outside credit. They have already authorized advances of about $5,000,000 to farmers' cooperative associations handling cotton, wheat, wool, tobacco and canned fruits.

"It is pointed out that the real service of the intermediate credit banks, like that of the war finance corporation, can not be measured merely by the volume of their discounts or advances. Their chief value is seen in the fact that the credit made available by them often induces or encourages private financial institutions to offer credit accommodations, when otherwise they might stand aloof. Some cooperative marketing associations in the last two years have been offered credit from private sources only after their obtained pledges of accommodation from the government agencies.

"The intermediate credit banks seem likely nevertheless to operate soon on a bigger scale than was expected. Each of the twelve institutions was provided with a capital of $1,000,000 from the treasury immediately after it was organized. Five of them have since called for additional capital to a total amount of $5,000,000, so that the present paid-in capital of the twelve banks is $17,000,000. Moreover, an issue debentures to the amount of $10,000,000 has been sold in anticipation of a large demand for discounts and advances in the coming marketing season. Discounts of agricultural paper for banks have been made to the amount of $1,000,000 by the intermediate credit institutions.

Limiting Loans.
"For the present, the federal farm loan board, which supervises the banks, is limiting loans and discounts to terms of nine months. Borrowers, however, have the practical assurance that the terms will be renewed when necessary. Reliance on renewals from the intermediate credit banks, according to officials to the department of agriculture, has a stronger justification than is the case where loans of commercial banks are concerned, because the latter are always under the obligation of protecting their deposit liabilities.

"Although financing of cooperative associations probably will call for more money this year than ever before, managers of such associations are confident all necessary accommodations will be available. They report that bankers all over the country are readily taking cooperative paper. One cooperative organization leader in Arizona says many associations in that state have not needed to borrow from the war finance corporation of the intermediate credit banks, because ample funds have been available to them from private bankers on very favorable terms.

"Some cooperative associations that borrowed heavily from the war finance corporation two years ago are now doing the bulk of their financing at private banks. Cotton associations in the south are getting funds in New York, as well as local farm banks."

JAMES G. WOODWARD PAID FINAL TRIBUTE

All Atlantans joined Friday paying final tribute to the body of James G. Woodward, four-time mayor of the city and one of the most conspicuous figures in politics in Atlanta in the past half-century, who died late Wednesday noon at the age of 79.

Funeral services were held from the chapel of Barclay Brandon with interment in Oak cemetery.

A large delegation of officials, including members of city and county boards of various departments, with men and women of all nations and professions of life in general respect to "Uncle Jim," his deceased was officiated by thousands. The large delegation of city officials was headed by Mayor Walter A. Sims.

Full bearers, selected from close friends, were John Malone, Geo. R. Sacks, Steve R. Johnston, Thos. H. Pitts, I. N. Ragsdale, R. E. C. Cane, George R. Donovan and John H. H. H.

Tax on Incomes Hurts Industries, Says Mayor Sims

Passage of an income tax would prove a blow to the industrial development of Georgia, Mayor Walter Sims declared Friday in an address on taxation before the Civitan club.

"Within the past few years a great movement for the industrial development of our state has been inaugurated, but if an income law is passed it will tend to run opposite industries away rather than to induce new ones to come to Georgia," he declared.

The mayor said that industries have been injured in other states where an income tax has been imposed.

In discussing the municipal government, Mayor Sims called attention to the fact that the operating expenses of the government have been used $100,000. He asserted that $9,000 could still be cut from the city expenses and the city's affairs operated efficiently.

He compared the city to a corporation, with himself as president, the general council as the board of directors and the voters as stockholders. He appealed to the voters to elect a capable and courageous "board of directors."

RATES FOR POWER FIXED BY BOARD FOR BAINBRIDGE

Schedule of service rates for power, proposed by the Bainbridge power company, newly organized utility concern in the south Georgia city, were approved Friday by the state public service commission.

This new company has completed a hydro-electric development on the Flint river, with the city of Bainbridge its largest prospective customer. The service commission recently approved an application for permission to float a stock and bond issue in order to finance the building of transmission lines from the company's plant to the towns of Donaldsonville, Iron City and Brinson, which do not now enjoy electric light and power facilities.

"BLANKET BOOZ" LATEST VARIETY OFFERED DRINKERS

Ill-fated whiskey manufacturers in South Georgia have discovered a new process in "running" the fiery nectar through their improvised stills, according to information reaching the office of Fred D. Dismuke, state prohibition director.

In addition to the variety known as "stump" and "squirrel," for moonshiners now have "blanket booze" to offer to their more or less fastidious customers.

The new concoction gets its name from the use of a wool or cotton blanket as a condenser in the primary stages of manufacture.

"Necessity sometimes impels moonshiners to devise odd and ingenious methods," declared Mr. Dismuke, in the manufacture of liquor. To say the least, this brand of alleged whiskeys lacking in sanitary formation. It is a wonder to me that persons drinking the stuff escape with their lives."

Barbecue to Be Held Monday for Benefit of Parsonage Fund

Old-fashioned barbecue will be the principal attraction at an outing to be held by members of four Methodist churches on the Hill circuit Monday at the old Mount Gilman grounds. It was announced Friday by Fred Sparks, pastor of the Be Hill church. The churches participating will be Mount Gilman, Wesley Chapel, Owl Rock and Mount Zion.

Dr. S. R. Belk, pastor of Trinity church, will deliver a humorous lecture on "Sunshine and Laughter" and Mr. and Mrs. Bach and their son, Julius, will render several musical numbers.

The barbecue will be for the benefit of a parsonage fund being raised at Be Hill. Barbecue will be served from 1 o'clock until 7. Fifteen hundred pounds of meat will be prepared for the large crowd that is expected.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR 6 CANDIDATES SPEAK

Six municipal candidates outlined their platforms to a small group of members of the League of Women Voters at Edison hall Friday afternoon. Including candidates and their friends, and a delegation of party boss supporters, thirty-three persons were present. Mrs. R. L. Turman presided.

The candidates who spoke were: Zola Smith, unopposed for general manager of waterworks; Dr. L. N. Huff, who is opposing Oscar Williamson for alderman from the ninth; Dr. W. B. Lingo and Dr. P. L. Moon, opposing candidates for alderman from the second; Claude L. Barnwell, who is opposing J. L. McLendon for alderman from the sixth; and Dr. Carl C. Aven, who is opposing Fred C. Woodall for councilman from the third ward.

Rakovasky Accepted.

London, August 31.—After much wavering on the issue, the government finally has agreed to accept Christian Rakovsky as head of the soviet commercial delegation in London. The British commercial agent in Moscow, William Peters, has been instructed to notify the soviet government to this effect.

Notes on New Fall Jewelry
In Tune With Fashion

The little individual finishing touches mean so much to a costume. And Fashion has so many ways of applying these touches this season. High's Jewelry Section knows them all. A few are mentioned here.

Bangle Bracelets
have just as much a place in fashionable circles as does the short sleeve. Some exceptionally dainty ones of sterling silver are here. They have engine-turned designs. In two strands, 59c; three strands, $1.

Pretty Barrettes
twinkle merrily as they hold bobbed locks away from the forehead or as they hold in place short hairs at the back of the long-haired coiffure. Ever so many attractive ones set with crystals in white or colors are here at prices from 59c to $1.19.

Silver Pencils
are the business women's saviour. Sterling silver pencils that propel and repel lead with ring in top ready to fasten to saviour at 29c.

Pearl Necklaces
are lovely with afternoon frocks, dinner or evening dresses. And it's surprising what lustrous and beautiful pearl beads—24-inch length—can be found at High's at $1.95.

Costume Slips
You've Been Asking for Have Come—They're $2 and $2.50

Of lingette. So soft and silky that they might easily be of satin, judging from the way they look beneath a Georgette frock.

Fashioned with straight tops strapped over the shoulders. Long straight tops with the skirt gathered on over the hips. In navy blue, black, brown and white.

Two styles. One with 21-inch double hem at $2.50. The other with a narrow hemstitched hem is priced $1.98.

THE SPIRIT OF TRUTH.—Even the Spirit of truth: whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him; but ye know him: for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.—John 14:17.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY.

Pointing out that Atlanta, for a city of her size and progress, is singularly backward in the respect that there is not a modern creamery within its limits equipped to make creamery butter, condensed milk and supply pasteurized milk to the general public, W. C. Sturdivant, of the American Bakeries company, draws attention to the magnificent market here for such products.

Mr. Sturdivant states that his company consumes over 30,000 pounds of creamery butter a month, as well as over 60,000 pounds of condensed milk, all of which has to be brought in from outside points, there not being any producer here of sufficient size to bid on these requirements.

With one company only using these amounts, it is easy to surmise what a tremendous market for such dairy products is offered in this city.

And, as Mr. Sturdivant expresses it, the American Bakeries company is a "southern company, with headquarters in Atlanta," which would, "naturally, welcome the opportunity to do business with our own people if it were possible."

It takes years to create a dairy producing business in any section of the country. No creamery can open for business, unless it is equipped with a constant supply of milk, and it takes considerable time for a farming section to change from one kind of agriculture—in this case, cotton—to dairying.

An active leader, with the vision to see the possibilities and the determination to surmount all obstacles, has a wonderful opportunity here to organize the farmers of the territory contiguous to Atlanta, and thus assure an ample supply of milk. A creamery, equipped to manufacture this milk in butter, condensed milk, etc., could then be operated in Atlanta, built so that it can be enlarged in capacity as the supply of milk grows and it could take its milk products from a radius of 100 miles around Atlanta.

As the boll weevil works his devastating will upon our cotton crops, the creation of this new source of certain, regular, all-the-year-round revenue, will mean stable prosperity for the farmers who supply the milk and for the investors who build the creamery. It will also mean a guaranteed, high-grade product, always available, for Atlanta consumers of all dairy products.

No better antidote for the ravages of the boll weevil can be found.

BACKYARD CHICKENS.

The man who lives so that he is able to provide space in his own backyard for a score or two of chickens knows a pleasure that his less fortunate brother of the apartment house and the crowded city residence cannot conceive.

The crowing of your own roosters, in the early daylight hours, provides an alarm clock that brings you out of bed with a feeling of kinship to nature that calls back memories of boyhood days on the farm, unequalled for starting the day right for the busy city man.

The task of feeding and watering the feathered herd is just sufficient to be a comfortable before breakfast job. It calls the householder out among his feathered live stock and gives him the sensation of husbandry as a breakfast appetizer.

Then, upon his plate, he finds the eggs, fresh-gathered from the nests, irreproachable in quality and with a flavor of the new laid which no others possess.

hears the throaty cackle of the mother hens and watches the young cockerels strut in masculine pride. He glazes over the beauties of plumage and of form and dreams of some day when his chickens shall win a coveted ribbon at the fair.

Then, when the dinner bell rings, he goes in, appetite sharp, to revel in the delights of broiled or fried chicken, hatched, raised and fattened by himself, and cooked with that perfection that only the south knows, when it comes to chicken.

For your soul's sake, man, get you a place where you can raise 'em and install a batch of cocklers to prolong your days and add to your pride.

A WORTHY MOVEMENT.

Calling attention to the mad race for armed supremacy in the air, which the nations of Europe have entered, the American Legion, through its national organization, will ask President Coolidge to call an international conference for limitation of air forces, and, if possible, entire disarmament of the flying navies.

It is stated on unquestioned authority that France has taken the lead in this conflict for superior power in the newest fighting arm, and that the situation, unless checked, presents the worst menace to the peace of the world today. France, it is stated, will be able to send aloft 4,530 battle planes by 1926, under her present construction program. Included in this armament of the clouds are planes which carry 75-millimeter cannons, planes which can transport six machine guns and their crews, enormous bombers, special fighting airships armored with battleship steel, and actual troops of the air.

England is said to be France's nearest competitor in this new field of warfare. The island kingdom has recently voted an additional $27,500,000 to enlarge her air armada. Even with this expenditure, she will have only 624 fighting planes in 1926 to oppose France's 4,530. Italy is engaged in the creation of a separate air force, with extensive plans for its rapid development, while Russia is employing German technicians and using German machinery in an effort to reach its air goal, announced by Moscow as a fleet of 10,000 planes.

Military experts have all agreed that the next great war, if it comes, will make the recent world conflict appear tame by comparison in its horror. It is conceded that the coming conflict will be decided in the air, and that we may expect to see huge fleets of enemy planes dropping wholesale death from the clouds, upon the cities and population centers. A mental picture of utter annihilation of great cities is not too far fetched, under these circumstances, and the adjective "ruthless" will take on a new, frightful meaning if something is not done to curb the madness of the war leaders.

America is the only nation in the world which can properly take the lead in any movement seeking to limit this armament of the air. So far, this nation has spent but little, by comparison with others, on her air forces, and she is thus in a position to call upon her sister powers to listen to the counsels of reason and sanity and forestall the conflict which their present actions encourage.

With the precedent of the naval armament limitation conference at Washington to point the way, President Coolidge has every reason to hope that the calling of a similar conference, for the limitation of the forces of the skies, will be productive of good results, and it is sincerely to be hoped that he will lend a sympathetic ear to the request of the American Legion.

David J. Meyerhardt, of Atlanta, state adjutant of the LaSalle de 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, is authority for the statement that the American Legion, through its delegates, will urge veterans of all the nations allied in the recent war to join with it in proposing to their respective governments that an international conference be called to limit military aircraft armaments and end the present race for superiority.

This international meeting will be held in Brussels, Belgium, starting September 1, and will represent fifteen million world war veterans, men who, as Mr. Meyerhardt expresses it, "know what war is."

Numerous United States senators, congressmen, governors and other party citizens, irrespective of party lines, have endorsed the conference proposed by the legion and it is certain that President Coolidge, should he see fit to call the conference, will receive the whole-hearted support of the entire nation, with party politics forgotten in the imperative need to check in its incipency this new horror of man's ingenuity.

Latest word from the farm communities is that the prodigal sons will soon be coming home to eat.

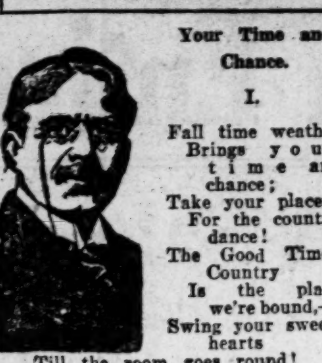

One presidential critic says that pitching hay for exercise never made a farmer out of anybody.

In the interest of forest preservation, the hope is expressed that we'll pull through on coal.

Your Time and Chance.

Full time weather brings you a chance. Take your places for the country dance. The Good Times Country is the place where we're bound to swing your sweet hearts.

Till the room goes round!

Full time pleasure for the great and small; Full, bright measure where there's joy for all. The roof is ringing! Where we shake the ground; Swing your sweethearts! Till the room goes round!

A Missouri preacher is quoted as saying: "The Lord lets us all live, to see if we will accumulate any real sense."

The Rain-Bringing Ad.

Talk about quick results from advertising. Make Traller says, in the Greenville Vedette:

"Does anybody advertising pay? Last week the Seybert correspondent placed a want ad for a rain at the first of the column, and the next day several spots over the county reported splendid showers. We suggest that the ones not honored with a rainfall, immediately subscribe for the paper."

Experience Meets.

Gittin' good experience. An' glad to have the chance: Lost the rheumatism! When trouble finds me dance! Climbed to the mountain top! But looked so powerful small! Gittin' good experience! When it come me time to fall!

Lots o' compensation.

Where we travel here below; Thankful for the old world; With its fire and its snow; Drains, by the roadside, The sweetness from the cup; An' Heaven needn't hurry To tell us: "Time is up!"

An Editor's Only Idle Time.

Editor Shannon, of the Commerce News, writes of the "idle time" of a country editor:

"There may be those of our readers who imagine we have a good easy time with but little to do. We invite them if such there be to spend one week in the News office and watch us work. The only idle time we have is when we tackle the garden in the early mornings and afternoons and when looking after our fine Rhode Island Reds and when we are asleep. We work hard six days in the week and fifty-two weeks in the year. Its no easy job to get out a weekly paper that is worth reading."

Experience School.

Says C. T. Davis, in his "Rambling Around" column:

"The most difficult thing in life is to lose the name and address of a person To whom you owe money."

And the Adams Enterprise adds—Endorse: Of your note at home When it's time to renew it."

The Kansas City Times says: "Someone has said that only a mint can make money without advertising and the Howard County agent has even a mint couldn't turn the trick if the law didn't put all its tricks in jail."

"We take no stock," says the Houston Post, "in this talk about abolishing all grade crossings. In the first place, it would cost a billion dollars, or more, to carry out the plan. In the second place, it would make our roads miserable if there were no crossings to be left limited to."

PRESBYTERIAN GROUP TO HOLD SALE TODAY

A rummage sale, the proceeds of which will go to the church building fund, will be held today by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church. Mrs. W. E. TODAY'S SAFETY TALK

Prepared by the National Safety Council GIVE A STREET CAR THE RIGHT-OF-WAY.

A street car is a heavy vehicle; it cannot be stopped suddenly and it certainly cannot turn out to pass you.

If an automobile and a street car meet, the street car won't get the worst of the argument.

The motorist is on the alert-and, nine times out of ten he will avoid an accident if he has half a chance, but the tenth may send you to the hospital and your car to the junk pile.

Remember—At all cross streets, the street car has the right-of-way, no matter which direction the vehicle is approaching from—except where the traffic is being directed by an officer.

Never pass a street car to the left, you may bump into one coming from the opposite direction.

The street is set in its ways; don't argue with it!

BITS OF NEW YORK LIFE

BY O. O. MINTYRE

New York, August 31.—For years he has gone about clubs telling fortunes. He has silver hair, a benign expression and dresses with Chesterfieldian distinction. Men who have their "fingers" in Wall street go to him for consolation.

He refuses to accept money for his work. He does not use cards, coffee grounds or other things that the usual fortune-teller uses. He merely studies the faces of those whose future he attempts to foretell.

A man I know went to him several months ago when the market was "spotty." He was in a tight corner and did not know where to turn. A huge sum of money was at stake. He was told to accept a certain loss by selling at once, and to do it before the close of the market.

He did it. He had no doubt so, he would have been wiped out by noon the next day. He sent the fortune-teller a check for $1,000, and it was returned by messenger with a curt note of reproof.

The seer is connected with a very prosperous business house, and is moderately wealthy. He has raised a large family and stands high in the estimation of his fellows.

I had a talk with him the other day. He does not profess any unusual powers. He says that when people ask him for advice he studies them carefully and there come to him thoughts he merely voices.

He admits he has been of great help to others, but he does not like to forecast anything in his own life. When he tries to get some light on his own affairs he says the thought will not come.

Nowhere is hospitality looked upon so lightly as in New York. There is a friend who has a magnificently fitted studio apartment in West Fifty-seventh street. Recently he invited a man to dinner at 7:30. He came at 9 with six "fingers." One of the girls placed a lighted cigarette on a very valuable piano lid. It left a scrofulous scar. "See," she said, as the host came near her. "I have left my trademark. You will not forget me. I liked his frankness. 'You have shown no consideration,' he said, 'for me. I refuse to show any for you. The maid will show you to the elevator.' And the entire party left in a huff."

A movie house on Broadway is giving hurrying pedestrians a sample of its air-cooled interior. There is a spout of cool breeze with the chilly swirling down constantly. The passer-by is asked to remove his hat, stand under the spout and be cooled off. As it is free, New Yorkers are taking their usual advantage. The other day two "customers" had a fight over getting a place in line to be cooled off.

That another actors' strike is looming is forecast in the news that two theatrical managers are planning to bring a homecoming to Wall street and the other two are now $40 a week chorus girls.

Four young women who were paid salaries of more than $1,000 a week as exponents of the shimmy dance when it was the reigning craze, are now in other vocations. Two have accepted stenographic positions in Wall street and the other two are now $40 a week chorus girls.

the housewife would welcome Pasteurized, rich milk in her home without saying, and the remarkable thing is that she has not made a vigorous demand for it.

With a market for its products assured, the question naturally arises, Why is it not for want of capital, it is not due to the lack of demand, it is not due to the fact that the people with capital have not the assurance that raw milk will be produced in the counties surrounding Atlanta in sufficient quantity that will enable them to operate a large creamery.

If Atlanta is to have this great addition to its economic life, a need that is decided by imperative, the proposition resolves itself into one of organization of the dairymen. If this was accomplished, it is the organization of dairy farmers agreed to supply the milk in quantities, the creamery could be built. The result would be a steady demand for the milk of the farmers, could produce, at an excellent profit.

A strategy of the efficient farm department is preparing for distribution some time this year a pamphlet outlining successful dairy farming and the proper methods of operation. This will also show the large profit to be made in this line in comparison with the growing of cotton. Dairy farmers who might be interested in the idea of a creamery will be given complete information if they will take the matter up with their county demonstration agent.

It is a crying need that will of necessity be filled eventually. With the disastrous effects of the boll weevil fresh in our minds and the need of pure milk for Atlanta, why should there be any unnecessary delay? W. C. F. FURBERMAN, (American Bakeries Company.)

have refrained from joining in true and cry against the essential element of food—protein. I haven't anything against protein, whether it comes in the form of beefsteak, or wat, or eggs, or milk, or peas, or, in short, I accept the dicta of such authorities on nutrition as Graham, Ik and M. Hindhead, that we can do anything as better, with less protein than we are in the habit of consuming. Instead of a daily ration claiming 80 to 100 grams, a ration of 40 to 50 grams is about right. (About 30 grams would be equivalent to one ounce.)

Another thing I give myself credit for is that I am not a vegetarian. I eat meat, and I eat it in moderation. I eat it in moderation. I eat it in moderation.

Somehow it has become the popular notion that meat is the important part of the high blood pressure, lean meat, red meat, the kind of meat which some persons are fond of eating, is not the cause of high blood pressure.

Just to settle the question—your blood pressure is high because of high blood pressure, and it is not because of high blood pressure. It is not because of high blood pressure.

Q.—How is the name Yvonne pronounced, and what does it mean?
A.—"Yvonne" is of French origin, and means eternal youth.

Q.—Is it colder at the South Pole than at the North Pole, and if so, why?
A.—It is colder at the South Pole (though there is little information) than at the North Pole, because the North Pole is at sea level, and the South Pole is at a high level.

Q.—When was Sir Roger Casement hanged, and what were his last words?
A.—Hanged August 3, 1916, at Pentonville prison, London. His last words were: "die for my country."

Q.—What vegetables will thrive in shady places?
A.—Lettuce, dandelion, cress (both bitter and water), romaine, endive, Chinese cabbage and Swiss chard.

Q.—Was the corner stone of the capitol at Washington laid with Masonic rites?
A.—Yes.

Q.—Who invented the cream separator?
A.—Carl Gustaf Patrik De Laval, a Swede.

Q.—What is a pignone?
A.—Formerly in Florida, Louisiana and adjacent regions, the Spanish half-cent, equal to 1-16 of a dollar. It is composed of the 5-cent piece, or any similar coin. "Not worth a pignone" is an expression used to denote very small value.

Q.—Did Frank Gotch ever throw Stan, Zysko, and if so, when? When did Frank Gotch die? How old was he? What caused his death?
A.—Frank Gotch threw Zysko June 1, 1910. Gotch died December

1917, at the age of 38, of uremic poisoning.
Q.—What two chapters of the Bible read alike?
A.—The 12th chapter of II. Kings and the 37th chapter of Isaiah.

SEVEN NEW PAVING PROJECTS FAVORED

An effort by the city paving engineer to collect for unsatisfactory concrete paving on North Jackson street between Ponce de Leon and Greenwood was ordered stopped by the street committee of city council, on motion of Claude L. Ashley, chairman, Friday afternoon. The committee also recommended that council accept contractors' bids on seven new paving projects, among them one for Finley Construction company, marking the end of the deadlock between the committee and Mayor Sims over willie paving.

Following the session of the committee Councilman Ashley, who is being opposed for re-election at the September 5 primary by J. A. White, charged that the attempt to collect property assessments was made to hurt his chance for re-election.

Complaints had been registered by property owners against the condition of the paving early in the year, Mr. Ashley said, and that the city had instructed Hansell and others he had inspected the paving and found it defective. The Mendor Construction company, contractors, had agreed to repave the street without legal action as soon as completion of other projects released a sufficient force of men to do the work, he said. With this understanding, no effort was made to collect from property owners until Thursday, when notices were mailed to them by the paving engineer that their property would be sold to satisfy the assessments if they were not paid immediately.

Action Is Asked.

"If they had waited until Saturday to mail the notices they would have lost me a lot of votes," Mr. Ashley asserted, "but they worked too fast and gave me no time to stop them."

Mr. Ashley's resolution called on the law department of the city to proceed against the bondsmen of the Mendor Construction company and instructed the street improvement collector not to issue fines until the street was put in satisfactory condition.

All but three of the bids published in Friday morning's Constitution were recommended for acceptance by the street committee and council will act on recommendations Monday and its favorable action will start immediate work on the first seven projects of a street paving program including more than 50 projects which will amount to more than $500,000, made possible by the repeal of the 10 per cent maintenance requirement in the baby bond paving plan.

Finley Construction company was recommended for the contract for paving Seventeenth street from Ponce de Leon circle with willie at $1.55 per square yard, the same price at which McDougall Construction company had paved Third street. It was the first contract for which Finley had been recommended this year and marked the definite breaking of a deadlock that had existed between the mayor and the street committee over the willie paving.

Deadlock Broken.

The mayor had consistently vetoed every willie contract on the ground that the committee was showing favoritism to the McDougall Construction company and not giving Finley a fair opportunity to compete. The willie company recently amended its requirements to permit the use of Finley's asphalt concrete, which was accepted and broke the deadlock which had held up several projects.

It was decided that the city forces would pave Allegheny from Moreland to Candler. The petition for paving Beecher from Cascade to Greenwood was withdrawn by property owners.

JUDGE W. F. BROWN DIES IN CARROLLTON

Carrollton, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—Judge W. F. Brown died at his home in this city this morning after an illness extending over several years.

Judge Brown has held many offices of trust and honor, having represented this county in the house of representatives several terms. He served on important committees, one of the last being that of codifying the laws of the state.

He was postmaster of Carrollton three years until ill health forced him to resign. He served many years as a member of the city council board and was one of the commissioners to install water and sewerage system in this city. He was a member of the ablest lawyers in this section of Georgia.

He leaves a widow, five sons, Col. Earl L. Brown, of United States army, stationed at Cincinnati, Ohio; Ralph S. and Paul Brown, both of this city; Harry Brown, of Birmingham; and Willis G. Brown, of Bowdon. One daughter, Mrs. Anderson, wife of Col. W. D. Anderson, of the United States army.

Judge Brown was reared in this county and has lived in Carrollton most of his life.

Payment of Back Pensions Is Seen In Tobacco Tax

Major C. E. McGregor, state pension commissioner, is interested in the amount of revenue which may be expected under the new tax on cigars and cigarettes passed at the recent session of the legislature.

It is the commissioner's belief that from this source the state may expect to receive enough money to pay all back pensions to Confederate veterans and their widows, to provide the half million dollars for the Alto Sanitarium building for tubercular patients, and eventually, to pay every pensioner on the rolls of his department a pension of $25 or $30 per month.

To show the solid foundation for his optimism, Commissioner McGregor has prepared a small brochure on the subject, which he is circulating over the state, together with a call to all friends of the veterans to oppose any attempt to repeal the new tax law.

According to Mr. McGregor's figures, the consumption of cigarettes in Georgia annually is 2,400,240,000. The year's total of cigars which are consumed on the altar of the goddess Nicotine he gives as 398,580,000. Their total value annually he puts at $38,800,400, which, with the tax at 10 per cent as provided in the law would mean a revenue of $8,386,040.

Major McGregor says there are 364,000 cigar smokers in the state and 348,000 cigarette smokers. He bases his figures on an estimate that each smoker will consume an average of three cigars or 12 cigarettes per day.

History of Dodson Family Is Ordered Compiled by Group

Under authority of the Dodson Reunion association, a committee composed of W. H. Dodson, A. B. Dodson and Marvin Dodson, will undertake to compile a history of the Dodson family in this section of the United States, according to announcement Friday.

The committee will conduct several weeks of research work to ascertain the origin of the Dodson family and trace the lineage to the present generation.

There are several hundred Dodsons in Georgia and the surrounding states. The annual Dodson reunion assemblies are held at various places each year. The 1923 reunion was held Wednesday at Grant park.

After a basket picnic, officers of the reunion association were re-elected as follows: W. H. Dodson, of Red Oak, president; E. D. Dodson, of Atlanta, vice president; Marvin Dodson, of Atlanta, secretary; and John P. Dodson, assistant secretary.

CHILD WONDER PLAYS 11-Year-Old Violin Artist Is Heard in Atlanta

Audrey Hall, 11, known as the "wonder child of Miami," whose remarkable violin playing has occasioned widespread praise for her talent, played Friday night near the corner of Lee and Gordon streets, before a large audience in the Seventh Day Adventists' tabernacle.

She rendered a number of difficult classical pieces with extraordinary ability, her command of technique and her unusually talented touch combining to justify the encomiums that critics have bestowed upon her.

Audrey is the daughter of Captain T. Hall and Mrs. Vilona Hall, who was for a long time a Ketch circuit violinist of note in the east. Mrs. Hall was the instructor of Inez Marvin, well known Atlanta violinist.

M'MANUS PURCHASES BANKRUPT STOCK

Macon, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—L. McManus today purchased the entire stock, fixtures and accounts of the L. McManus Furniture company, now in bankruptcy, paying $15,350 to the creditors of the firm.

In the bankruptcy petition filed some time ago the liabilities were listed as $30,000 and the assets as $22,000, but the latter dwindled to half that amount.

Mr. McManus will operate the business at the same location.

Next President To Be Democrat, Predicts Vinson

Augusta, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—That 1924 will be a democratic year and that the middle and far west are for McAdoo for the democratic nomination for the presidency, was the declaration of Congressman Carl Vinson, who has just returned home from a visit of several weeks on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Vinson, who is ranking democratic member of the naval affairs committee, made a tour of inspection to the naval base on the west coast. He was accompanied by Mrs. Vinson. They made the trip by water, sailing late in July on board a transport and going through the Panama Canal. They returned by rail.

The congressman discussed politics with local leaders in the midwest and west states.

"I found a sentiment for Henry Ford for president, but he will not be the nominee of either of the big political parties," said Mr. Vinson.

"Democratic sentiment in behalf of McAdoo predominates," continued Mr. Vinson, "and if nominated he will sweep the west and south, which means that the democrats will win if the nominee is elected."

There is every indication of democratic success and we will stand no chance of losing if we select the right man.

There is bitter antagonism to the republican administration leaders on the part of the followers of Mangus Johnson, Brookhart, LaFollette, Borah, Hiram Johnson and other western senators. This means that a progressive democrat will be sure to defeat a conservative republican such as the republicans are certain to nominate.

Mr. Vinson has returned to Millersville and will remain in that section of the state until congress convenes in December.

GOVERNOR WILL NAME TAX COMMISSION SOON

Governor Clifford Walker is expected back at his office in the state capitol Monday or Tuesday, after a short vacation spent at his home in Morrow.

One of the first things he is expected to do on his return is to announce the personnel of the special tax commission he recently announced he would name to make a financial study of the state's financial needs and taxation possibilities, before the convening of the legislature in special session on November 7.

Another matter which will occupy his attention upon his return will be the appointment of a successor to J. Frank Rhodes, state game and fish warden, whose term of office expires Saturday.

It is reported at the capitol that the personnel of the tax commission has already been decided, but no announcement has yet been made by the governor. Under the original plan, as given out by him, the body was to include representatives of the farming, manufacturing and banking interests of the state, with instructions to estimate the needs of all state-supported institutions and departments for the next ten years, and make recommendations as to the best way to revise the state's tax system, with the raising of the money needed in the fairest and most scientific way.

Install New Laundry

Carrollton, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—The Mandeville Mills have purchased the large brick building at Alabama street, known as the J. H. Harris building, and a large force of workmen are engaged in remodeling it preparatory to installing a laundry. All machinery will be operated by electricity including the pressing and ironing machines.

Work of installing machinery will begin in a few days and it is the purpose of this company to have everything in readiness for operation in two weeks. This plant is to cost an investment of more than $50,000.

Carroll Crops Good

Carrollton, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—Despite the unfavorable weather conditions of the past several days, crops of Carroll county are the best in years.

Good wheat and oat crops have been harvested and early corn planting a big yield, while late corn never looked better.

A yield of between 25,000 and 30,000 bushels of cotton is expected. A violent infection in some sections of the county is rather heavy, still the damage is being reduced to the minimum by frequent applications of calcium arsenate.

Five Men Shot When Mob Fires Into Klan Meet

Wilmington, Del., August 31.—Five men were shot and rioting continued for several hours following an initiation of 250 candidates by the Ku Klux Klan on a farm near Newcastletown.

The most seriously injured are Harry Hushbeck, 17, Newcastle, shot in the back, and William Clark, 31, Newport, shot in the neck. The rioting started at the close of the ceremony, when a cross was lighted. Disorders began with a volley of shots from a crowd of about 500 boys in an adjoining field. Klansmen pursued them, but were met by nearly 1,000 men, who rushed the Klansmen off the field and destroyed the cross. The Klansmen rallied and there was a general fight. Klansmen and firemen were called out but were unable to quell the disorders.

PABLO BEACH SCENE FOR DANCE MARATHON

Jacksonville, Fla., Aug. 31.—(Special.)—The second marathon and endurance dance of the season will begin on Monday (Labor Day) at the Shad Pier at Pablo Beach under the management of James E. Trotter.

The entrants will start at 11:30 on that night and continue until the last marathon has asked for his time.

A large orchestra will furnish music the entire twenty-four hours of each day while the dance is on, and all concessions will remain open day and night for the comfort and entertainment of the visitors.

STILLMORE LUMBER SHEDS ARE DESTROYED

Stillmore, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—The lumber sheds of the Newlin and Howell Lumber company here were completely destroyed by a fire of unknown origin about 4 o'clock this morning. Approximately $8,000 worth of finished flooring, ceiling and siding was burned.

Two empty freight cars narrowly escaped destruction. The mill, 75 feet away, was saved by the timely covering about one half the loss was in force. The sheds will be rebuilt at once.

NEW PETITION ATTACKS LEGALITY OF BRANDON

Columbus, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—After he had withdrawn the petition which was filed last Monday with the clerk of the Lee county circuit court attacking the legality of the law consolidating Phenix City and Girard, Attorney J. W. Kelly, of Girard, representing about fifty persons of the two cities, announced Thursday afternoon that he had filed a new petition at Opelika, which aside from carrying most of the grounds in the old petition, provided for two additional contentions.

According to Attorney Kelly, one of the new contentions attacks the act which provides for the appointment of the commissioners and the changing of the name of the city, it being claimed that this law is illegal in that the constitution provides that each law must have but one single subject.

It is the Girard attorneys' opinion that two separate laws should have been passed which provided for the consolidation and the renaming of the city and the appointment of the commissioners.

Funeral of Dixon

Columbus, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—The funeral services of Marshal Frank Dixon, whose death occurred two or three days ago at the Norfolk, Va., navy yard, were held from the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Dixon, Friday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. E. B. Ticker of the Episcopal church.

The services were attended by a large number of the friends of the young man, members of Columbus camp No. 10781, Modern Woodmen of America attending in a body, and conducting the services at the grave, interment was in Linwood cemetery.

Phenix City Gets Meet

Columbus, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—The First Baptist church of Phenix City was decided on as the next annual meeting place of the Russell County Baptist association at the close of the 1923 convention at Hartsboro, Ala., late Thursday afternoon.

The association embraces all the Baptist churches in Russell county and the churches in a wide section of the state. The convention of the Russell County Baptist association at the close of the 1923 convention at Hartsboro, Ala., late Thursday afternoon.

Initiate "Haymakers."

Columbus, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—Local Red Men, especially those who have had conferred on them the rank of "Haymakers" and manifesting keen interest in the ceremonial which has been planned for tomorrow night, which is expected to be the biggest event of its kind for that order in this section this year.

There will be a class of between 50 and 75 to receive the haymakers' degree, it has been announced, and it is expected that there will be visiting Red Men from Opelika, Phenix City and Girard, West Point, LaGrange, Newman and other points. Some of the Georgia great council officials are expected to be present.

COTTON ON LORD'S ACRE FLOURISHES WITHOUT POISON

Arlington, Ga., August 31.—(Special.)—Rev. H. M. Melton, pastor of the Arlington and Bluffton Baptist churches, stated that seven farmers who are members of the Baptist Church at Bluffton staked off one acre each of their this year's crop and promise to give the proceeds of that acre to the Lord's work.

Rev. Melton stated that all of the farmers will make good crops this year and that he believes that one of the seven members is going to make a bale of cotton off the acre that was staked off for the Lord.

President Asks For Legal Ruling On Shipping Plan

Washington, August 31.—President Coolidge today asked the department of justice for an opinion as to the legality of a shipping board's proposed plan for indirect government operation of its merchant fleet through subsidiary corporations.

Assurances have already been given the board by the department of justice, a white house spokesman said today, that the plan is legal but the president thought it best to have a formal opinion.

Nothing has been decided concerning the fleet, it was added, and the members of the board with whom the president conferred last have been asked by him to submit further details and estimates of the relative cost of the existing method of operation and the proposed plan.

BLIND CHILDREN URGED TO ENROLL IN SPECIAL CLASS

Blind children and those whose sight is impaired to such a degree that they are unable to attend the regular public schools were urged Friday to enroll immediately for the blind class conducted under the city school system at the Calhoun school. J. J. Childs, teacher of the class, said that all children in the grammar grades are privileged to avail themselves of the class, no charge being made for the school. The opening of the class will take place at the same time as that of the other public schools here.

"Many parents and children in Atlanta do not know that this class is maintained under the school system," said Mr. Childs, "and we are anxious to have as many as possible avail themselves of this opportunity."

SAYS DIVORCE COURT NOT BARGAIN COUNTER

Seattle, Wash., August 31.—Long standing practice by the bench of granting divorces after cursory examinations in uncontested cases was broken by Judge Everett Smith in superior court yesterday. He refused five cases and granted a sixth one only after sharp questioning of the plaintiff, a woman. Said the court: "This is not a bargain counter, where you can lay down your money and pick up your divorce. This court will try to do something to check this kind of getting a divorce for the asking."

70 FISHING CUTTERS MISSING AFTER STORM

Copenhagen, August 31.—Between 60 and 70 fishing cutters are missing in consequence of the fierce gales which swept the coast of Jutland yesterday. Many have been wrecked.

Extensive tracts of agricultural land were flooded by the storm and many houses and barns were destroyed. The corn crop was badly damaged.

An express train from Varde encountered a wind so violent that the train was able to cover only four miles an hour. Little damage was done in Copenhagen. Telephone lines are down in many places.

GIVES BLOOD TO SAVE LIFE OF FRIEND HERE

Chick Barron, service manager of the Yarbrough Motor Company, submitted to a transfusion of blood Friday afternoon in an effort to save the life of Charles A. Steen, a salesman for the same company.

Following the operation the condition of Mr. Steen which has been critical for more than two weeks, was reported slightly improved. After being ill for nearly a month, Mr. Steen underwent an abdominal operation Monday for the removal of an abscess. He was reported to have rallied following the operation but his condition continued to grow worse and medical attendants announced Friday morning that a transfusion operation would be necessary immediately.

Eight young men, employees of the Yarbrough Motor Company and other friends offered to give the necessary blood, and after all had submitted blood tests Mr. Barron was selected as the best subject for the operation.

BENNY KARR HALTS JOHNSTON IN THIRD GAME OF SERIES

America and Australia Break Even in Net Bouts

Bill Tilden Trims Hawkes, But Johnston Loses Match; Crowd of 10,000 Sees Play

Johnston Wins First Set from Captain Anderson, But Is Unable to Maintain Australian's Fast Pace.

BY IAN D. McINNES.
(Member of Australian Davis Cup Team.)

Forest Hills, N. Y., August 31.—Australia, challenging America for the international tennis championship, emerged from the first day of the Davis cup play still very much in the running, with one victory and one defeat.

The colonel James O'Anderson defeated William M. Johnston, world champion on both lawn and clay courts, in a sports match, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5 and 6-2. With American one match in arrears, Big Bill Tilden evened the score by beating John B. Hawkes, 6-4, 6-2 and 6-1.

Weather conditions were ideal for tennis and attracted a splendid gallery of 10,000 to the fine new stadium.

The Anderson-Johnston match was brilliant and exciting, but its tennis must be said, was rather patchy in spots and at times contrasted sharply with the game both men are capable of playing. Johnston was unusually erratic and seemed out of touch, but atoned for it by coming to life frequently with hits of extraordinary brilliance. Anderson also was rather patchy, but he soared to supreme tennis in the last set, when he played like one inspired.

The moral and psychological effect of this match was to put Tilden right on edge and we saw him at his best. Hawkes played a plucky game, but was not quite good enough.

Both Anderson and Johnston initiated the title play cautiously, fully aware of their responsibilities. They hugged the baseline, but their long distance driving was low and powerful. The game went with service until 3-1, although neither man put all he had into the serve.

Forehand Slashes.

A series of brilliant forehand slashes carried Anderson finally through Johnston's serve in the seventh game. Johnston was apparently unable to maneuver himself into the middle of his court, and contributed a netted backhand shot for this break.

With the call 4-3, however, Johnston recovered his stride and retaliated by taking Anderson's service, his own and Anderson's again, with deep drives to the backhand of his taller opponent. It was a decisive rally and brought him the set, 6-2.

Anderson came to bat in the second set, however, at the ten of his game. With an authentic attack directed at Johnston's backhand, which forced a series of netted returns, he took the American's serve. The double faults in the second game, however, lost him his own service immediately afterwards. During the next three games the Australian captain forced the play, and took all three, for a 4-1 lead.

Johnston's stroke lacked his customary whizzing pace, and enabled Anderson to force him into errors. A startling quartet of service aces by Johnston gave America the next game at love. Then Anderson recouped splendidly, sending two backhand aces past Johnston at the net, and following them with two terrific angled forehand drives that his opponent did not touch.

For a moment the sun seemed to trouble Anderson and he double faulted, but the slip was momentary and he captured the last game handsily for a 6-2 victory in the set. Johnston here played not so confidently as usual, frequently netting low balls on his forehand, and cutting his backhand returns often into the net.

Miss Fordyce Will Battle

Miss Burns in Golf Finals

Miss Burns Ties Exmoor Course Record in Defeating Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt.

Chicago, August 31.—(By the Associated Press.)—Miss Louise Fordyce, of Youngstown, Ohio, champion today won her semi-final match in the women's western golf championship at Exmoor by defeating Florence Halton, of Salt Lake City, 4 and 2.

In the other semi-final Marion Burns, of Kansas City, western champion, overcame Mrs. Elaine Rosenthal Reinhardt, of Dallas, 6 and 5, and 6, by shooting well under par, while the Texas star herself was playing in perfect figures most of the way.

Miss Burns shot par golf on the first nine and held the Ohio champion even for three holes and she quickly squared the match with losing the fourth to a birdie 5. Then Miss Fordyce took the lead, and was never headed thereafter.

Miss Burns tied the course record of 80, set by Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago, Wednesday, in defeating Mrs. Reinhardt. The Missouri champion shot eight birdies and all the rest of the holes were made in par, although she had to negotiate two strokes.

Mrs. Reinhardt started poorly, doubling her second on the first hole and putting her fourth over the green for the only 7 of the day.

The Cards:

Miss Fordyce: 65-55 544 444-43

Miss Halton: 75-65 555 555-43

Miss Burns: 65-65 544 444-43

Miss Reinhardt: 75-65 555 555-43

On today's scoring Miss Burns was favorite for the finals tomorrow as she was the better player for the 13 holes both finished under.

Miss Fordyce has shown good match playing ability and has proved herself a good fighter under difficulties.

Miss Collett Wins.

Eastern Point, Conn., August 31.—Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, national women golf champion, won the Shennecossett club invitation tournament today by defeating Miss Edith Cummings, of Chicago, in the final.

Johnny Brock's Fluke Double to Shortstop

Proves Feature of the Game—Teams

Wind Up Series at Poncey Today.

BY HENRY ALLEN.

If Bert Niehoff and his Mobile Bears were of the opinion that they would further gain on the advantage now held by the New Orleans Pelicans in the Southern pennant race, at the expense of the Crackers yesterday, they were a greatly surprised bunch of young men before nine innings of baseball have been rung off.

One Mr. Benjamin Karr, hailed as the local twirling ace, turned the 5 to 2 out after yesterday by a 5 to 2 out after the locals had dropped a twin bill to the Bruins on Thursday.

By the manner in which Benjamin started his twirling exhibition yesterday the crack customers had just about reconciled themselves to another such exhibition as was presented on Thursday. But the two runs made by the Bruins in the first inning proved to be the only ones they scored during the afternoon. For Benny then uncorked a brand of twirling that has put him right up at the top of the list of twirlers in this circuit.

While Benny was putting up such a performance his teammates found Edgie Moore, who had pitched a major league, to be easy pickings and base hits along with faulty judgment on the part of the Mobile infield, gave the locals the run needed to put the game on ice.

Fluke Doubles Presented.

The fans that were present yesterday were treated with two fluke doubles that fans are allowed to see once in a while.

The second inning Johnny Ring dropped a Texas leaguer back of first and Marriot made an effort to reach the ball, but he rolled it over his head by him Ring went to second. The Mobile infield was then all playing in close for a sacrifice from Brock. On the first ball pitched Johnny bunted, but with power enough for it to roll between third and short clean into left field. Ring raced home. Niehoff had rushed down to first to base to cover on the play, while Cuto had gone to second. But the Cuban shortstop was forced to make a dash for the ball and Brock out ran Niehoff from first to second and was credited with a double.

This play along with one in the first in which Niehoff and Ziebler had become confused some to take the life out of the Bears, although later in the game, when men had managed to get on bases, pinch hitters were sent in but Benny was invincible and the Bears proved easy from then on.

Joe Geron continued to lead the locals battling attack with two hits out of four times at the plate. Every man on the local squad obtained one hit with the exception of Freddie Heff. Much Interest Is Attached To Coaches in New Places; Many Problems for Mentors

"Greasy" Neale Will Find Free Scope for Carrying Out His Ideas at the University of Virginia.

BY WALTER CAMP

New York, August 31.—There are 10 football coaches this season who are looked upon as likely to blaze the way in the development of new plays. For this reason their work and that of the men they coach will be followed with unusual interest.

Mike Donahue has gone to take up the fortunes of the Louisiana State University after a long and successful career at Auburn, where he was an influence in the development of the game in the south, and his work will be watched with special interest. Barron of Penn State is counted on to further some new developments now that he has the Michigan Aggies in charge, and Tom Thorp is expected to produce further innovations at New York University.

In the middle west conference Dr. Wiley, after a summer spent in running a summer school of football tactics, probably will change some of his methods at Ohio State, where the forward pass has been such a prominent feature of play, with such fine passers as the Workmen boys to carry it out.

Richards has been successful as coach of Wisconsin by Ryan of Dartmouth and where Richards depended quite heavily on power, Ryan is expected to work out a faster and somewhat more varied line of play.

"Greasy" Neale has gone to the University of Virginia, where he will have a free scope for carrying out his ideas and a fruitful field for development.

Andy Kerr will continue at Stanford University on the Pacific coast pending the arrival of Glenn Warner and will endeavor to bring his Palo Alto men nearer to the point of equality with those of Andy Smith at Berkeley.

Bob Folwell will continue at Annapolis, but J. J. McEwen has taken up the coaching work at West Point and

Sally League

GREENVILLE WINS SIX STRAIGHT.

Greenville, S. C., August 31.—Pitching the greatest game in his two years in the Sally League, Yearling let Macon down with two hits today, fanned 13 batters and helped Greenville to win the second straight of the series, 5 to 0. Yearling's four victories are the most in a row since he won the first three games of the season, and one of the two hits Macon registered advanced Coffey to second, where he did when Yearling fanned Vargas and Schmidt, who pitched for Swartz. The Spinners bunched their hits in the first, fifth and eighth innings for the necessary runs to win. Swartz has lost but two games to Greenville since joining the Peaches against four victories over his former teammates. Today's game marks Greenville's fifth consecutive victory and the Spinners have won 11 out of 14 games.

The Beautiful and Damned

By F. Scott Fitzgerald

Next Week, "The Letter of the Contract."
BY BASIL KING.

One afternoon when the snow was dirty again along Riverside Drive, Gloria, who had been to the grocer's, entered the apartment to find Anthony pacing the floor in a state of aggravated nervousness.

"Have you any money?" he inquired.

"Why, Anthony, you must be crazy! You know I haven't any money—except a dollar in change."

He executed an abrupt about-face and returned to the living-room, where he renewed his pacing. It was evident that he had something portentous on his mind.

"That damn bank!" he quavered. "They've had my account for over ten years—ten years. Well, it seems they've got some automatic rule that you have to keep over five hundred dollars there or they won't carry you."

"Well, I went there today to cash a check, and Halloran came up, told me they have to close my account and said this was a good time to do it because I didn't have a damn penny in there."

"You didn't?"

"That's what he told me. And I had only got a dollar and some change, and we've got to live till Monday, when I can get to my broker's."

"And not a drink in the house," he added as a significant afterthought.

"Can't you call up Dick?"

"I did. He's gone down to Princeton. Well, let's see—Don't you know some friend you might go to?"

"Well, how about that gentleman who was so anxious to help you once, and could hardly restrain himself, Blockman?"

"Oh—?" He had burst her at last. "Why not him?" he insisted calmly.

"Because—he doesn't like me any more," she said with difficulty, and told the story.

"Why, damn him!" cried Anthony, championing her violently with a curious perverseness of emotion.

"Anthony, that doesn't matter now; the thing is we've got to live over Sunday and there's nothing in the house but a loaf of bread and a half-pound of bacon and two eggs for breakfast."

"She handed him the contents of her purse. 'There's seventy, eighty, a dollar fifteen. With what you have that makes about two and a half altogether, doesn't it? Anthony, we can get along on that. We can buy lots of food with that—more than we can possibly eat.'

"Jingling the change in his hand he shook his head.

"No. I've got to have a drink. I'm so darn nervous that I'm shivering."

"I thought what I should do," she said, "I'll look my watch. I can get twenty dollars on it, and get it back Monday for sixty cents extra."

With a brief goodbye he started down the hall toward the outer door. Gloria sat to her feet. It had suddenly occurred to her where he would probably go first.

"Anthony!" she called after him, "hadn't you better leave two dollars with me? You'll only need carfare."

The outer door slammed—he had pretended not to hear her.

At Sammy's place he found Parker Allison and Pete Lytell.

On the subway Anthony had counted his money and found that he had almost four dollars. He could pay for two rounds at fifty cents a drink—which meant that he would have six drinks.

At half past seven, when they had completed six rounds Anthony felt that if he took just one more drink he would attain a gorgeous rose-colored exhilaration.

Artfully, he feigned in his vest pockets, brought up his two quarters, and stared at them as though in surprise.

"Well, I'll be damned," he protested in an aggrieved tone. "Here I've come out without my pocketbook."

"Oh—knock it," Lytell said. "I guess we can blow a good fella to all the drinks he wants. What'll you have—some?"

Just after nine o'clock Anthony walked unsteadily to the door, handing Sammy one of his two quarters as he passed out. In Sixth avenue he passed pawn shop after pawn shop, all closed. With growing befuddlement, he crossed the street and walked along to one of the great hotels.

He entered and told over on his fingers the acquaintances he might conceivably call on in this emergency. He thought, eventually, that he might approach Mr. Howland, his broker, at his home.

After a long wait he found that Mr. Howland was out. He returned to the telephone operator, leaning over her desk and fingering his quarter as though loath to leave unsatisfied.

"Call Mr. Blockman," he said suddenly. His own words surprised him. The name had come from some crossing of two suggestions in his mind.

"What's the number?"

Anthony looked up Joseph Black—then he waited in the booth while central called the number. He learned that Blockman was at a popular dancing resort on Forty-fifth Street.

Anthony remembered the existence of a rule that patrons of the place must be in evening dress. Well, he would not go upstairs—he would send a boy up for the head waiter and wait for him in the lower hall.

For a moment he did not doubt that the whole project was entirely natural and graceful. To his distorted imagination Blockman had become simply one of his old friends.

After a short interval a head waiter appeared, bearing a card on which were charted the table reservations. "Tell him Mr. Patch. Very important."

Again he waited, leaning against the banister.

Then he saw Blockman descending the staircase, and took a step forward to meet him and shake hands.

"You wanted to see me?"

"Yes," answered Blockman, nodding. "Personal matter."

"What about?"

Anthony only laughed—a silly and lied and ill-behaved generally in varying degrees of greed and desperation.

Anthony awoke one morning in March realizing that the verdict was to be given at four that afternoon, and at the thought he got up out of his bed and began to dress. With his extreme nervousness there was mingled an unjustified optimism as to the outcome. He believed that the decision of the lower court would be reversed, if only because of the reaction, due to excessive prohibition, that had recently set in against reforms and reformers.

He counted more on the personal attacks that they had leveled at Shuttlesworth than on the more shrewdly legal aspects of the proceedings.

Dressed, he poured himself a drink of whiskey and then went into Gloria's room, where he found her already wide awake. She had been in bed for a week, humoring herself, Anthony fancied, though the doctor had said that she had best not be disturbed.

"Good morning," she murmured, without smiling. Her eyes seemed unusually large and dark.

"Do you feel well enough to go down to court with me this afternoon?"

She nodded.

"Yes. I want to. Dick said yesterday that if the weather was nice he was coming up in his car and take me for a ride in Central Park—and look, the room's all full of sunshine."

At two o'clock Richard arrived. Anthony took Gloria down in the elevator and walked with her to the curb.

"What time will I expect you back?" asked Anthony.

"We won't come back," she answered, "we'll meet you down there at four."

"All right," Anthony muttered, "I'll meet you," and went upstairs.

He faced his reflection in the mirror, contemplating dejectedly the wan, pasty face, the eyes with their crisscross of lines like shreds of dried blood, the stooped and flabby figure whose very sag was a document in lethargy. He was thirty-three—he looked forty. Well, things would be different!

The door-bell rang abruptly and he started as though he had been dealt a blow. Recovering himself, he went into the hall and opened the outer door. It was Dot.

He retreated before her into the living-room, comprehending only the word here and there in the slow flood of sentences that poured from her steadily, one after the other, in a persistent monotone.

Dot was decently and shabbily dressed—a somehow pitiable little hat adorned with pink and blue flowers covered and hid her dark hair. He gathered from her words that several days before she had seen an item in the paper concerning the lawsuit, and had obtained his address from the clerk of the court. She had called up the apartment and had been told that Anthony was out by a woman to whom she had refused to give her name.

In the living-room Anthony stood by the door regarding her with a sort of stupefied horror as she rattled on.

His predominant sensation was that all the civilization and convention around him was curiously unreal. . . .

She was in a milliner's shop on Sixth Avenue, she said. It was a lonesome life. She had been sick for a long while after he left for New York—her mother had come down and taken her home again to Carolina. . . .

She had come to New York with the idea of finding Anthony. She was ardently in earnest. Her violet eyes were red with tears; her soft intonation was ragged with little gasping sobs.

That was all. She had never changed. She wanted him now, and if she couldn't have him she must die.

"You'll have to get out," he said at length, speaking with tortuous intention.

me without you coming here? My God! You'll have to get out!"

Sobbing, she sat down in a chair. "I love you," she cried; "I don't care what you say to me! I love you. 'I don't care!' he almost shrieked. 'get out—get out! Haven't you done me harm enough? Haven't you—you—done—enough?'"

"Hit me!" she implored him—wildly, stupidly. "Oh, hit me, and I'll kiss the hand you hit me with!"

His voice rose until it was pitched almost at a scream. "I'll kill you!" he cried. "If you don't get out I'll kill you. I'll kill you!"

There was madness in his eyes now, but unattenuated. Dot rose and took a step toward him.

Gaieties Keep Up at the White; Many Atlantans Take Part

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., August 31.—(Special).—The closing week of August has been filled with a gay round of fancy dress balls and supper dances, luncheons, teas and mah jongg parties, and water carnivals. An unbroken crowd will spend Labor day here while the cottage colony and many visitors now at the Greenbrier will remain until well into September. There will be scarcely a cessation of midsummer festivities before the autumn season is on. Many northern and westerners have made reservations for the fall and the next three months promise to be unusually full and brilliant ones.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Crozer and their family, after a fortnight in New York, returned this week on a private car and during September and October will occupy the Hawley cottage, where they expect to do considerable entertaining. Mr. and Mrs. Philip Ludwell Leidy, of Philadelphia, who have been spending the summer at Rose Hill house, Penlynn, Pa., where they have been occupying the home of Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Spaulding, will arrive in a few days for September.

Walbridge S. Taft has come down from New York and joined Mr. and Mrs. Henry Waters Taft. Countess Marie de Noailles, daughter of the late French ambassador to the United States, is here for early September. Mr. S. Danaher, brother-in-law of Attorney General Daugherty, joined his wife here today. Jack Spaulding, son of former Governor Spaulding, of Pennsylvania, came down today for Labor day and others soon to come are L. G. Taylor, vice president of the Pullman company, Chicago; Colonel James A. Blair Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Taylor, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Green and Percy Schenck, of Jersey City; Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKane, of Washington; Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Horner, and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Vogue, of Pittsburg, and Dr. P. R. Hamilton, of Marshall college.

Among the prominent St. Louisians at present here are Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Mack and Miss Anne Laurie Jane Bruce and Warren Elliott and Mate Branch. Others taking part were Lawrence Lewis Jr. and Mary Lillie Lewis, Thornton Lewis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dilliam Lewis, who danced a flirtation polka with his cousin, Beth Botts, Betty Thom, Emily Bruce, Mabel Bush, Malters Close, Katherine Payne, Frank Harding and Barbara Kelly.

Luncheon.
Mrs. J. K. Wise gave a large luncheon and bridge this week at the Greenbrier, entertaining nearly thirty guests, and Mrs. Henry Waters Taft. Mrs. Robert H. Dowman, Mrs. Edward W. McKenna, Mrs. De Courcy Thom and Mrs. John W. Grant of Atlanta, have all given important luncheons this week.

The last of the August series of supper dances at the casino was largely attended, more than a score of tables being occupied by supper parties. The largest of the evening parties, of thirty covers, was given by J. K. Wise and Mrs. Edward McKenna. Harry Richardson entertained a large party of the younger set, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant had a number of guests at another table and among others entertaining were Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Mortland, Dwight Meigs, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donahue, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Marshall and Mr. and Mrs. George B. Thurnauer.

With the conclusion of the Greenbrier-White Sulphur Springs show, the Greenbrier county fair, and horse show this week has attracted the attention of the many horse lovers of the colony. Many of the young men showed horses, among those winning honors being Miss Elizabeth Van Hagen, who showed Mrs. Thornton Lewis's Glenna Collette, with which she took two red ribbons at the White Sulphur event, and J. M. Hudgins, who exhibited several horses, which were shown by Miss Natalie Hanna and Miss Van Hagen. Mrs. Stuart Hanna took a large party of the young people over, stopping off for a luxurious picnic lunch, and Mrs. Francis Moran was among those organizing a large motor excursion among friends.

Mrs. Carlisle Says Now Is Time To Create New Park

Mrs. J. A. Carlisle, chairman of the home economics committee of the Atlanta Woman's club, believes that now is the logical time to vote for the Central park? Now is the logical time. "With Atlanta's population increasing so rapidly, why delay a central park? Now is the logical time. It seems unnecessary to argue the different points of value. Besides a great asset in the beauty of trees, grass and flowers, think of the recreation and pleasure to visitors, tired business men and women, and children of the city.

"Success of greater Atlanta depends upon the cooperation of the people and it is hoped the decision reached by September 5 will give Atlanta a beautiful Central park.

A Central Park Needed.
"Atlanta has no distinctly central park and in a city of this size it is greatly needed," continued Mrs. Carlisle.

"That particular part of the city is so well adapted for just this purpose, as it has rolling slopes and little valleys which can be charmingly developed in a green and refreshing beauty.

The Bond Issue.
"As to the bond issue there is no finer purpose for which we can use money than in creating spots of aesthetic beauty such as the Central park will become. Few are the cities which have ready an available fund for any municipal purposes and our city is no exception, therefore the bond issue should be carried through and the park created before Atlanta is too large a city to undertake the creation of a park so near the city's heart where the price of property so central would be practically out of the question.

MRS. J. A. CARLISLE.

Dr. Loveridge Will Speak.

"The Superconscious Mind" will be the subject of an address by Dr. Blanch Grosbie Loveridge at the meeting of the Atlanta Psychological Society, which is held Sunday afternoon at 3:30 in the mahogany room of the Hotel Ansley.

Miss Phillips Weds T. E. Galbraith.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Phillips, of Lindale, Ga., announce the marriage of their daughter, Bertha, to Ted E. Galbraith Thursday, August 23. Mr. and Mrs. Galbraith will be at home after September 1 at 554 North Boulevard, Atlanta.

Dr. and Mrs. James Will Make Home In Salem, Virginia

Dr. and Mrs. E. C. James, who have spent the summer in Virginia and are motoring to Atlanta, will arrive Saturday. They will leave in September for Salem, Va., where Dr. James will occupy the chair of languages at the Men's College in Salem. Dr. James is the leader of the Men's Bible class at the Second Baptist church and will conduct the class Sunday morning.

Club Members and Guests Enjoy Tea At Woman's Club

The regular weekly tea at the Atlanta Woman's club Friday afternoon was a pretty occasion, bringing together for bridge and tea a large number of club members, their friends and visitors.

The tables were arranged in the banquet hall and in the sun parlors and beautiful garden flowers, attractively arranged, were used in the decoration of these rooms.

Miss Frances Spaulding was the hostess at a party at which her aunt, Mrs. Louise Spaulding Foster, entertained.

Covers were placed for Misses Ruth McDonald, Mary Gladys Steffner, Lucy Elizabeth Harper, Marguerite Hodnett, Gertrude Miller, Mary Brown Spaulding, Constance Spaulding and Mrs. John Oliver.

Mrs. Albert Akers entertained a small group of friends in compliment to Mrs. F. H. Mallard, of Jacksonville, and her hostess, Mrs. Arthur Kelly; Mrs. Hal Hart, of Miami, Mrs. W. H. DeBoe, of Jacksonville, and Mrs. Jackson, of Valdosta.

Mrs. F. E. Hacknight entertained Mrs. Russell Baker, Mrs. LeRoy Hatfield and Mrs. Donald Hett. Others entertaining congenial parties were Mrs. J. L. Gale, Mrs. James Shepherd, Mrs. L. S. Goodrich and Mrs. Howard McCord.

Informal Party For Visitors.

Mrs. William E. Crusselle entertained informally Friday afternoon at her home on Spring street in compliment to her sister, Mrs. L. B. Ramsour, of Lancaster, Va., and for Mrs. W. P. Jarrett.

The attractive home was decorated with garden flowers arranged in vases and bowls.

A group of intimate friends of Mrs. Crusselle were invited to meet the honor guests.

MRS. COFFMAN ILL SEVEN YEARS

Saved from an Operation by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sidell, Ill.—I was a nervous wreck. I was suffering from a pain in my left side, which was almost unbearable, and I could not even let the bed clothing rest on my body at night. I had been sick for seven years, but not so bad until the last eighteen months, and had become so run-down that I feared for nobody, and would rather have died than live. I couldn't do my work without help, and the doctors told me that an operation was all there was left. I would not consent to that, so my husband brought me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged me to take it. I have taken fourteen bottles of it and I feel ten years younger. Life is full of hope. I do all my housework and had a large garden this year. I never will be without the Vegetable Compound in the house, and when my two little girls reach womanhood I intend to teach them to take it. I am never too busy to tell some suffering sister of my help, and you can use my name and letter to spread the good news of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines."—Mrs. IDA M. COFFMAN, R. B. 2, Sidell, Ill.

CHAPTER XLVI
The Cry of a Child.

Larry was forcing one of the windows open. It gave squeakily, but he pushed it as high as it would go and stepped into the room within.

Gloria held her breath, not knowing exactly what she expected, yet feeling sure that some sort of noise would follow his entrance. But there was none. She could hear Larry call "Hello!" and walk across the floor, but still there was no sound from anyone else inside the house. She drew a long breath of relief, almost wishing that their chase could prove a wild one, and that Valerie was really not there.

Then, stumbling across the silliness came an unmistakable sound. Suddenly she heard a baby's frightened cry, quickly broken off. That settled it; there could be no doubt that the kidnapped child was there.

Gloria ran up the steps that led to the porch and climbed through the window that Larry had forced open. One door was open—that must have been the one through which Larry had gone. She opened the other door, feeling sure that it was not Larry's entrance that had caused the child to cry out. Instinctively she knew that someone was trying to keep the child quiet, and had smothered that cry in the hope that it had not been heard.

The room in which she had entered was empty save for a dining table and some chairs, piled at one side. The she paused, too frightened at what she saw to move.

Curb Market Is Valuable Asset To Housewives

Atlanta's curb market is growing daily in popularity with Atlanta housekeepers.

Large quantities of figs, baking pears, peaches and apples for canning and preserving, artichokes and green tomatoes for pickling, with every variety of fresh vegetables at reasonable prices, makes marketing a pleasure and benefit to all who patronize the City Market at Edgewood avenue and Butler street.

Mrs. Norman Sharp, chairman of the market committee, announces the following committee of ladies who will act as patronesses for Saturday and the following week: Mrs. Alice Taylor, Mrs. W. D. Alexander, Sr., Mrs. J. P. Billups, Mrs. W. F. Melton, Mrs. O. H. Matthews, Mrs. Clarence Periss, Mrs. H. G. Carnes, Mrs. G. P. Treadwell, Mrs. Turner Carson, Mrs. W. D. Williamson, Mrs. M. L. Throver, Mrs. Alfonso Richardson.

Mrs. A. W. Stirling Entertains at Tea.

Mrs. A. W. Stirling entertained a group of East Lake friends at tea Friday afternoon at her handsome home on East Lake Drive in compliance to her three daughters, Mrs. W. S. Davidson, of Estacada, Ore.; Miss Nora Stirling and Miss Alexa Stirling.

The lovely home was decorated with varieties of flowers from the hostess' gardens. The tea table in the dining room held a silver basket of yellow garden flowers. Silver candlesticks holding yellow unlighted tapers and silver compots of bonbons further enhanced the appointments.

Mr. Northern Is Honor Guest.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dorsey entertained informally at their country place, "Sons Ranch," Friday evening the occasion commemorating their brother, Charles S. Northern, on his birthday.

BEAUTY CHATS

THE MANICURE.

I have a wealthy acquaintance whose exquisite finger nails I always envied. They are the real almond shape, they are always beautifully pink, just glossy enough; they show perfect moons at the base, and are always perfectly kept. I knew she had a lady's maid and thought her nails were tended daily by that efficient person. One day I happened to ask her.

"Oh, dear, I always do my nails myself," she answered. "I have for 20 years. I'm much too nervous to sit still while someone fusses over my fingers. I've a lot of things to use." I glanced at her dressing table. The things were only the usual files and scissors and buffers, a bottle of bleach and little pots of rouge and polishing powder and cream. Most of us possess as many things, though, perhaps, not of the very expensive kind this woman used.

I thought afterwards that if she could keep her nails so beautifully herself, so could any woman. It is not entirely a case of leisure with her, she did a lot of rough work during the war, and her hands then were always perfect; today she is busy with endless activities. To be sure, she doesn't wash dishes (she did during the war), but if she did, I feel sure she would pull on water-proof gloves, and when she was through, sit down and do up her nails as pinky and prettily as before. Some women are like that.

Are you? This woman told me that she had rather ugly nails when she was a girl. "They have improved," she said, "I compared them once with the nails shown in an old photograph—when I was 18. But one thing I don't regret, and that is, I don't regret the compensation for being 38, don't you think? I didn't have wrinkles then, even if I did have ragged finger tips."

Miss L. H.—As you are 20 pounds overweight, the best treatment for you to take to overcome this tendency to pimples, would be to follow a course of dieting. You will attain normal weight while at the same time the complexion will be cleared. To do this, eat as little starch as possible, avoid rich, heavy foods, drink an abundance of water and be sure that all channels of elimination are kept active.

Toura Girl—The preparation you mention is a strong bleach for removing freckles. It could not be used for clearing the complexion.

Veins—The tendency to enlarged veins during hot weather may be relieved by eliminating all meat and other heating foods from the diet. Fresh vegetables, plenty of milk and a generous use of butter will give you the requisite food elements during the hot months, all of which will tend to relieve this blood pressure.

Brown Eyes—Hair that has been bleached with peroxide will recover its natural shade, but you cannot hasten the process. An excellent thing to do is to cut off as much of the bleached hair as possible, since the natural coloring comes from the roots as the hair grows, and the less of the bleached hair as possible will make the whole head look better.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes, in care of the "Beauty Chats" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker answer is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope

EXCLUSIVE OPTICAL SERVICE

Many patients pay for unsatisfactory glasses furnished by optical firms who claim to sell for a trifle less than the legitimate optical man. Glasses are like diamonds, they have a market value and when they are sold for less than the market value there is sure to be something wrong somewhere. The first thing you notice in Ballard's glasses is the comfortable feeling of your frame adjustments by the Ballard service which is not always found elsewhere. The second thing you notice is you have gotten rid of that nagging or tired feeling you often experience from glasses where there is some little something left out. We have thousands of patients all over the states who will vouch for this statement. Ask any of them.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Don't Wring Linens.

Never put table linens through the wringer as that will make creases very hard to wring out.

A Place for Each Thing.

If all things for the same purpose are kept together time and trouble will be saved the housekeeper.

Keeps Them Soft.

Sponges will be kept in good condition if washed occasionally in warm water with a little tartaric acid. Rinse in clear warm water.

Dance Is Given

At Club de Vingt.

The chaperons at the Friday night dance at the Club de Vingt were Mrs. I. B. Williams, Mrs. A. J. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Erwin, Mrs. William Stalling and Mrs. Lynn Rhorer.

Baptist League Postpones Meeting.

The regular monthly meeting of the Business Women's League of the Second Baptist church has been postponed from the first Sunday in September until the second Sunday of the month, September 9.

A very interesting program has been arranged and the members of the league and public are cordially invited to attend. Mrs. F. J. Paxton is president of the league.

Mrs. Etheridge Will Give Bridge.

Mrs. Lamar Etheridge will entertain at her home on Ponce de Leon avenue at a bridge-tee Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. James E. D. of Galveston, Texas, who is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. Turner, on Seminole avenue.

Four tables of players have been invited and the prizes will be from novelties.

TIDAL WAVE ROLLS THROUGH SURUGA BAY

Toll of Life "Incalculable" Reports Lone Refugee From Imperial City of Tokio.

San Francisco, September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—At 8:20 o'clock tonight the Radio Corporation received a message from its station at Tomioka which said that 700 persons were reported killed when the 12-story tower at Asakusa fell.

Many boats sank in a tidal wave in the bay of Suruga. Most of the houses at Numazu collapsed, the message said. In Tokio the imperial railway station was swept by fire and the Imperial theater collapsed. The railway station at Ueno burned. It is rumored the imperial palace is in danger. The whole of Tokio is burning, except Shiba road.

Prince Regent Hirohito and his household are safe, according to the message.

The report from Suruga and Numazu indicates the earthquake was widespread. Suruga is 62 miles southwest of Tokio; Numazu is 84 miles from Tokio in the same direction. Ueno is about 30 miles west of Tokio.

The Asakusa tower which collapsed was 220 feet high. It stood in Asakusa park, near the "Flower Hall," an establishment devoted to entertainment features. The tower's top commanded an extensive view of the streets surrounding the park.

TOKIO REFUGEE TELLS OF DISASTER.

San Francisco, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Radio Corporation of America, here tonight, received from its station at Tomioka, Japan, a first-hand story of the earthquake and fire in Tokio from a refugee. The refugee said that at the first shock fires broke out at various places in the city. The flames originated in the Mitsukoshi Department store and spread to the Metropolitan police board's building and the Imperial theater. These were burned to the ground, as were many other large buildings.

The city, the refugee said, is still in flames and the fire is spreading from Senju to Shinagawa. The flames can be seen seven miles away from Tokio. All railway bridges are destroyed.

"THE OPEN ROAD"

Hard surfacing of the main highways has meant a lot to the farmer.

Instead of wallowing through the mud of obscure by-roads he can now drive his team or machine over a solid surface—direct to the stores of the county seat.

Good roads mean a saving of time and effort for the farmer.

Here in Atlanta YOUR eyes daily have the opportunity to travel over little "roads" which mean a saving of time and effort for YOU. These "roads" are the want ads of The Constitution.

They lead to the stores where you can buy the typewriter you've been wanting, or the safe you've been wanting, or the overcoat you need this winter.

Without them you will wander up and down the streets of Atlanta not knowing where your best opportunities lie.

SWEEPING REVISION OF FREIGHT RATES IN STATE ORDERED

Changes Made by Public Service Commission Ruling Will Cause Many Reductions.

Continuing its efforts to remove all discriminations in freight rates between different points in Georgia, the state public service commission on Saturday issued an order making sweeping revisions of rates on a number of commodities, including iron and steel articles, sugar, cotton, canned goods, peanuts and other articles.

The new rates, which have been devised in an attempt to make rates equal for the same length of haul on the same class railroad, will go into effect on September 15. They are, in every case, maximum rates, and there is nothing, under the law, to prevent any railroad from charging lower rates, provided that discrimination between different points, or individual shippers, is not practiced.

Reductions Are Made.

On the whole, the new scale of rates on these commodities is a sharp reduction, though in a few instances rates have been slightly raised for some shipping points, in order to remove a disparity.

The order also provides that in no instance shall intrastate rates on these commodities be higher than interstate rates on the same commodities between points in Georgia and points in other states for the same or greater distances over the same line or lines.

This action of the commission, changing the rates on these leading commodities, follows a similar revision of class rates which was ordered effective on May 1 this year. It is also announced that similar revisions in other commodities are to be made as rapidly as possible.

Makes Statement.

The statement of the commission, announcing the revision in these commodity rates, is as follows:

The Georgia public service commission has issued an order Saturday making a sweeping revision of rates on several very important commodities, including iron and steel articles, sugar, cotton, canned goods, peanuts, etc. Beginning in the fall of 1922, the commission went into an investigation of all freight rates, with the view of removing discriminations between towns within the state, and between towns in the state and points outside the state. As a result of this investigation, issued a class rate schedule effective May 1 of this year, that changed every class rate in the state, causing some advances and many reductions, but placing each commodity on a parity distance and the class of railroad upon which it was being transported.

After disposing of the class rates, the commission has now issued an order of commodity rates, and in its order just issued has taken into consideration the fact that the rates on commodities should be as uniform as possible, and also the effect of the new rates.

The rate from Savannah to Griffin, a distance of 201 miles, is 27c per hundred. The rate on pine iron from Atlanta to Tallahassee, a distance of 122 miles, is 56c per hundred. The rate from Newnan to Tallahassee, a distance of 122 miles, is 56c per hundred. The new rate from both Atlanta and Newnan to Tallahassee will be 29c per hundred.

Effective November 15. The present rates on sugar are based on a haul from Savannah to Valdosta, a distance of 157 miles, is 27c per hundred, and from Macon to Valdosta, 101 miles, 46c per hundred. The new rate from Atlanta to Macon will be 24c per hundred. The rate from Savannah to Griffin will be 24c per hundred. The rate on sugar from Savannah to Tallahassee, a distance of 122 miles, will be 29c per hundred. The rate on sugar from Atlanta to Tallahassee, a distance of 125 miles, will be 29c per hundred.

The quantities cited in the above illustrations exist in the rates on practically all of the commodities, but it will be seen that not all of the rates have been reduced. The rates on commodities which have been reduced are the result of the competition of the larger distributing points.

The new rates have been ordered into effect November 15 of this year. The rates fixed by the public service commission are maximum rates that can not be exceeded by any railroad.

Worth the Money!

"I HAVEN'T GOT ALL I VOTED FOR IN AUTHORIZING $4,000,000 SCHOOL BONDS BUT WHAT I HAVE IS WORTH THE MONEY!"

NO LEGAL ACTION AGAINST HOWARD IS CONTEMPLATED

Bar Doubts If Law Offers Chance for Disbarment or Impeachment Step Directed at Judge.

No further action on charges against Judge G. H. Howard, newly appointed to the bench of Fulton superior court, is contemplated by the Atlanta Bar association, stated James A. Branch, president of the association, on Saturday.

This statement followed action of the bar association Friday, when, with but five dissenting votes, it adopted the report of its grievance and executive committees, sustaining the charges brought against Judge Howard by Attorney Edgar Latham.

Mr. Latham accused the judge of offering to use his "political influence" to secure the appointment of Fulton county solicitor-general for Fulton county, after the judgeship had been secured for John A. Boykin, present solicitor, on the understanding that Mr. Latham would split the fees of the office with Judge Howard.

Report Hits Howard.

The report adopted by the association branded the alleged action of Judge Howard as "illegal, corrupt and contrary to public policy."

Members of the association Saturday expressed themselves as doubtful if there were legal grounds for action looking either to the disbarment or impeachment of Judge Howard.

They pointed out that the alleged offer was made at a time when Judge Howard was not an active member of the bar, and likewise before he had received his appointment to the bench. It was also pointed out that any disbarment proceedings could not be conducted until someone had been found to act in the capacity of prosecutor, and it was frankly admitted, there was no foretelling what the action of a jury, in the circumstances, with the political ramifications which have surrounded the case, might be.

Latham Satisfied. Attorney Latham, who made the original charges, had expressed himself as being "entirely satisfied" with the action of the bar association on Friday, and on Saturday he stated he had nothing further to add to this.

Members of the association, however, stated Saturday that they were very well pleased with the result of the investigation and, while admitting result in actual receipt of cash payments.

CUPID'S VICTIMS HEED ALTAR CRY OF WAR TOCSINS

New York, September 1.—Threatened war between Italy and Greece affected the hearts of Italians and Greeks here today. More than 200 marriage licenses were issued at the city hall and full a hundred couples were married by City Clerk Cruise. A majority of the couples were Italians and many were Greeks—giving rise to the belief that maybe the war threat had something to do with it.

$20,000 IN TAXES PAID BY A., B. & A.

Sum Is Partial Settlement of Arrears Due State, Taxes for 1921 Still Remaining Unpaid.

Georgia's state treasury was enriched by $20,000 Saturday morning, when a check for this amount was received from B. L. Buzz, receiver for the A. B. & A. railroad, in payment of state taxes due for the year 1922.

This railroad, which has been in the hands of a receiver for several years, has been slowly rehabilitating itself financially, and this payment is a partial settlement of arrears of taxes due the state. The 1921 taxes, amounting in all to about $30,000, have not yet been paid, and there is also about $1,400 in interest on the 1922 taxes, still due.

The railroad property was assessed for 1922 at a valuation of $4,000,000, the taxes paid Saturday, being at the regular ad valorem rate of five mills on this amount.

The subject of the overdue taxes on the A. B. & A. railroad came before the recent regular session of the state legislature, when the house addressed an inquiry to Attorney General George M. Napier, asking if any legal steps had been taken to secure the payment of these taxes or if any arrangement for their payment had been made.

Mr. Napier's reply, setting forth the legal aspects of the situation, was received shortly before the legislature adjourned. It pointed out that, with the railroad already in the hands of a receiver, recourse to the courts could hardly be expected to result in actual receipt of cash payments.

WARM CAMPAIGNS FOR CITY OFFICES NOW NEARING END

Polling Places for Primary and for Park Bonds Announced and All Details Completed.

With political rallies scheduled for Monday night in wards where the warmest contests are being waged for city offices to be decided in the September 5 primary, and nearly all of the candidates professing confidence of victory but taking no chances, Atlanta politics Saturday night were in high spirits over prospects of a substantial vote in favor of the $20,000,000 bonds asked in the election to be held at the same time as the primary. "Our workers in every ward report that all indications point to success," Levi W. Reeves, campaign manager for park bonds, said.

Polling places for the primary and for the bond election, both to be held Wednesday, have been announced and candidates and bond advocates are busy organizing their friends for active work around the ballot boxes all day Wednesday.

No withdrawals had been announced up to Saturday night and indications were that all candidates who had originally entered the lists would stick to the finish.

Physicians in Rare.

Two physicians are pitted against each other in the contest for the seat made vacant by the retirement of a third physician, Dr. A. H. Cochran, alderman from the second ward. Dr. P. Leonidas Moon, present councilman from the second, was opposing Dr. W. B. Lingo, Dr. Moon standing on his record and Dr. Lingo attacking both the school board and the city planning commission in his campaign speeches.

Claude L. Barnwell, former police commissioner, is running against J. L. McLeod, present alderman from the sixth ward, each depending largely on personal popularity and not dividing sharply on any general issues.

The illness and subsequent death last week of Alderman Oscar Williams' mother in Macon forced him to retire from active participation in his race for re-election. He has left his candidacy entirely in the hands of his friends. Dr. L. N. Huff, his opponent, is campaigning vigorously, attacking every out of the mess a full-fledged hero.

Greece Cries Out to World As Italy Embarks Troops And Prepares For New War

Greek Delegates at Geneva Declare Gage of Battle Will Not Be Lifted.

BRITISH NAVY MOVES ON SECRET MISSION

"Tommies" May Be Sent To Enforce Orders of League in Settling Dispute.

London, September 1.—England and France today await with grave concern the outcome of the league of nations' first great test as an instrument to prevent war.

As Italy continued her military and naval preparations, extended her occupations in the Mediterranean and further manifested her support of Premier Mussolini's determination to have his fling in the Balkans, the league of nations issued a request to both Italy and Greece to withhold hostilities until the league has had an opportunity to study the situation.

This accompanied word from Rome that Italian sailors had seized the wireless stations on the island of Patmos, that Italian seaplanes were scouting the coast of Greece, that Italian troops were preparing to embark from the port of Taranto, and that Italian Vice-Admiral Simonetti had been appointed governor of the Greek island of Corfu.

Greeks Renounce War.

What relief there was in the tense situation came with word that both Italian and Greek delegates at Geneva had declared there was no intention of starting a war and the first move toward a settlement was offered by the Greek delegate who promised that his government would make due reparations for the killing of the Italians.

It is easy to explain the anxiety of the British and French over the threatening situation and their prayerful hope and support of the league's efforts to effect peace. Britain speculates over the possibility of British troops and ships being called upon by the league to cooperate in event there is necessity for coercive action.

France, owing to the complexity of her interests in the Balkans, enthusiastically desires to maintain a hands-off policy lest she compromise her relations with Yugoslavia and the other nations of the "little entente."

There always is a strong British fleet in the Mediterranean and only recently England decided to make the Mediterranean a main fleet station, as a result of which she has been reinforcing her fleet there.

Britain Is Ready.

Furthermore there are approximately 15,000 British troops with a full equipment of war munitions and stores now in the Near East, where they are evacuating Turkey. The government does not conceal its attitude that the league has complete jurisdiction over the Greco-Italian mess and Britain stands ready to accept the league's decision. Officials generally believe that the affair will be settled without necessity of the league resorting to force.

Many doubt that the league will be able to stand the test because of the likelihood that France would support Italy.

The individual in the street—as well as army and navy men—ask whether, in event the league calls for force, Britain will be compelled to "hold the sack" for the league as she did for the allies at Constantinople.

As for France, well informed French statesmen say that Premier Poincare is deliberately avoiding a definite stand for the present. France does not desire to take sides either way. Should she side with Italy she would antagonize Yugoslavia, which government already has indicated its sympathy with the Greeks. France has long mothered the "little entente," which includes Yugoslavia, and has both financial and political interests in the friendship of these Balkan states.

Generally speaking, the belief here is that Mussolini will accede to whatever suggestion the league of nations makes for settling the dispute, particularly if there is evidence of Anglo-French solidarity behind the league. Mussolini would have had his spectacular show, would have accomplished his purpose of revealing himself as a man of action in international affairs as well as domestic, and could step out of the mess a full-fledged hero.

THE WAR SUMMED UP.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Italian government is actively engaged in military movements to exact reparations from the Greeks for the killing of the members of the Italian delimitation mission in Greek territory. In addition to the bombardment and seizure of Corfu, where 5,000 Italian soldiers are reported to have landed, the Italians have occupied the islands of Paxos and Antipaxos, of the Ionian group, lying to the south of Corfu; Italian warships are moving to strategic points and Italian reservists in various cities have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness for a call to the colors.

Greece has placed her case in the hands of the League of Nations, but the council of the league has postponed discussion of the question until Tuesday next. Meanwhile, the Scandinavian and Anglo-Saxon delegates at Geneva have expressed themselves strongly in favor of the league asserting its full prerogatives conferred upon it by the covenant and taking over the settlement of the controversy.

The Italian government is opposed to the controversy going to the League of Nations for decision, asserting that it is a subject to be settled by Italy and Greece themselves.

It was disclosed after the meeting of the league of nations that the nations represented had lined up on the Greco-Italian dispute as follows:

Supporting Italy: France, Spain, Brazil, Uruguay and Belgium.

Supporting Greece and denouncing the Italian course: England, and Sweden.

AGE-OLD GRUDGES, GREEK AND ROMAN, STALK FROM TOMB

Ghosts of Caesars Beckon "Black-Shirt" Premier With Dreams of Empire in Mediterranean.

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN.

The legions of Rome are on the march. Through the marshes of Latium, over the vine-clad hills of Lombardy, through the mountain passes of Calabria, everywhere the rumble and echo of wagons and war equipment and the measured tread of thousands of marching feet.

It is the new Italy that is on the march. "Italia Reviva," they call it. But it is the age-old spirit of Julius and Antony, the spirit of the Roman conquerors, the spirit of the legions, that is leading the hosts of fascists.

For the enemy is the same as he was in Caesar's day. Then also the Greeks stood in the way and blocked the path to world dominion to the victorious Roman generals. Did not Pompey battle for ten years to subjugate the Hellenes? Did not the greatest strategists of antiquity leave their lives in Greece while they tried to extend the borders of the empire?

From the Capitoline hills and the ruined Forum Romanum, a modern army concentration place, the phantoms of legions are looking on. Twenty-three centuries of warriors are stirred by the new spectacle. Hellas against Rome, a clash of the two greatest civilizations the world ever saw.

Where Cohorts Trained. Scouts are spying out the lay of the land in Dalmatia, troops are pouring over the Albanian borders, machine gunners and khaki-clad mountain artillery are moving in the direction where twenty centuries ago the cohorts of Caesar himself moved into line against the solid phalanxes of the Greeks. Italian airplanes are hovering above the Ionian archipelago. They have dropped bombs on the is-

LEAGUE HOPES FOR EARLY SETTLEMENT.

Geneva, September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—The council of the league of nations today decided to take up the Italo-Greek differences next Tuesday and expressed the hope that meanwhile the two countries will commit no acts of such a nature as to aggravate the situation.

Nicholas Politis, the Greek spokesman, was heard immediately when the council went into session under the presidency of Viscount Ishii, of Japan. The former Greek foreign minister made a good impression and the opinion in league circles tonight is that the grave question comes before the council in shape favorable for settlement.

M. Politis, in explaining the Greek demand for intervention by the league said his government had invoked articles 12 and 15 of the covenant, although it might also have invoked Article 10, which provides for a blockade of the nation breaking the covenant. The Greek spokesman said his government omitted to do so because it desired to approach the question in the most amicable spirit possible. He announced Greece would accept whatever decision the council might make for settlement. Lord Robert Cecil of the British delegation, declared there was no doubt whatever of the competence of the council to deal with the conflict nor of its duty to do so.

Hjalmar Branting, the Swedish representative, agreed with Lord Robert and said that the whole world was looking to the league for action. Then Signor Salandra said that he wanted to reserve the right to speak on the question of the competence of the league after he had heard from his government.

PARALLEL OF 1914

UNJUSTIFIED, SAYS ROME.

Paris, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—What is regarded here as the hostile attitude of Great Britain toward Italy in the present crisis is commented upon with much surprise. Commentators appear to be in consternation that in view of Italy's traditional friendship toward her ally, Great Britain, that the London press should say that Italy's action might lead to dangerous complications in the Balkans.

Some papers say that the only way to prevent a conflagration in the Balkans is for Great Britain to persuade the Greek government to give to Italy the satisfaction she demands. The newspapers draw a comparison between the friendly attitude of the French press and the hostile opinions of the English newspapers.

SHELLING OF CORFU

NECESSARY, SAYS ITALY.

Rome, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Greek authorities at Corfu were blamed today by the Italian government in a semi-official statement for the necessity of the firing at Corfu yesterday.

The statement said that the Italian admiral did not fire until he had given the Greek authorities time in which to effect the evacuation of refugees and other civilians from the old fortress. This statement estimated the number of wounded at ten.

"It was necessary," said the statement, "to fire with small caliber guns against the fortress at Corfu following the refusal of the Greek authorities to hoist a white flag after they had been requested by the Italian authorities to do so, according to the custom of international law, and ten persons within the fortress were wounded."

MURDERS WERE PLANNED, BY ITALIANS, SAYS GREEK.

New York, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—Dr. George Vilar, former Greek consul at Philadelphia and former representative in the Greek parliament from the province of Janina, where the Italian mission was assassinated, today declared in a formal statement that he believed "the murder was planned by Italian diplomacy and carried out by Albanian bandits."

"The circumstances of the massacre of the Italian commission are such that no cabinet in good faith could have taken the precipitous action which was chosen by the Italian," he asserted.

"Italy is resolved, at all costs, to bring about a royalist government at the fall election. Mussolini fears the return of former Prime Minister Venizelos and the adherence of Greece to the little entente, thus endangering Italian military dominance in the Adriatic and the Mediterranean."

Efforts in other countries to show similarity between the Italian action and that by Austria against Serbia in 1914, he said, showed an exaggerated view of the situation. Italy was only taking measures to safeguard her prestige and those measures did not mean a menace of war.

LEAGUE COMMISSIONER PROTESTS BOMBARDMENT

Geneva, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—The commissioner of the League of Nations at Corfu, Mr. Kennedy, has sent to the secretariat of the league here a protest against the bombardment by the Italians. A telegram was received from him today saying that the Italians fired on the barracks where were sheltered Armenian women and children refugees, several of whom were killed.

FLOOD OF CONGRATULATIONS SEEN AS PLEBISCITE.

Rome, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—Premier Mussolini continued to receive innumerable telegrams from civil and patriotic organizations of all classes expressing indignation at the massacre of the Italian mission and expressing confidence in his government and the steps he has taken to preserve the dignity and prestige of the nation.

The outpouring is held by the government officials to amount to a plebiscite, which accords to the government unlimited confidence.

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR EXPLAINS TO BELGIUM.

Brussels, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—The Italian ambassador called at the Belgian foreign office today to explain Italy's action at Corfu. He said the measures were of a temporary character and were made merely to safeguard Italian prestige without wishing to commit an act of war.

ITALIANS FIRED WITHOUT EXCUSE.

London, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—A Central News dispatch from Athens says that the Italian occupation of Corfu has produced a feeling of stupefaction and intense indignation over the fact that despite the declaration of the prefect of Corfu that Italy's attitude on Greece's resistance the Italians opened fire on the fortress housing 5,000 refugees, of whom 11 were killed.

No retaliation was offered from the island, where there were no guns. The Italians arrested the prefect and ten officers, who were taken aboard the Italian boat despite the protest of the British.

All communication with Corfu (apart from the Athens and Corfu) was cut off today, now has been cut.

Rome, September 1.—(By The Associated Press.)—Official announcement was made this afternoon that there was no truth in the reports circulated in foreign countries that Italian forces had occupied either the islands of Samos or of Crete.

A dispatch from Brindisi states that the Greek steamship Atrion, which had been held up there, was allowed to proceed toward Greece but was required to fly the Italian flag at its masthead. Three Greek journalists expelled from Italy were on board the Atrion.

Italian naval units which had been stationed at Spinali and Venice now are steaming for southern Adriatic waters in full war status and eight transports are held in readiness in case there are further eventualities.

The Italian government has officially announced the occupation of Corfu probably will be the limit of Italian advances for enforcement of sanctions and that there consequently probably will be a short breathing spell.

GENEVA IS PIVOT FOR WAR ALARM

London, September 1.—The near eastern crisis pivoted today upon Geneva, where the council of the League of Nations had fortunately arranged a meeting before it was known it would be faced by the strongest test of the league's vitality which has yet confronted it. The council was only so far as to adopt a resolution urging moderation upon the Greek and Italian governments until the council could examine the circumstances in detail.

No belligerent events were reported during the day from reliable sources, although a rumor was current that the Italian fleet would bombard the island of Samos, but there has been an active bombardment of diplomatic statements and arguments from Rome and Athens.

The Italian premier, Mussolini, telegraphed to all the powers and the League of Nations that the Italian occupation of Corfu was a provisional measure and that the Italian minister in Athens informed the Greek government that it should not be regarded as a hostile act and advised that Greece should refrain from any action which might lead to a further escalation of the crisis.

The Italian government asserts strongly that the question is not one of the League of Nations, but concerns only Italy and Greece and affects Italy's honor. The Greek government apparently adopts an attitude of helplessness; it says it is in the hands of the League of Nations and will do whatever the league decides it should do. The Greek government also says it is prepared to accept in advance any reparations demanded by the council of ambassadors.

Greece has protested to the powers against the bombardment of Corfu and makes the point that the Italians opened fire at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, whereas the second ultimatum was not to expire until 5 o'clock. Greece also makes the point that Corfu was not fortified. The reports of the casualties there vary from ten killed or wounded to fifteen killed.

The Italian navy proceeded with the organization of Corfu in a business-like way. Vice Admiral Simonetti was appointed governor and local police who were willing to serve were drafted into the Italian service. This proceeding is not welcomed with enthusiasm abroad, certainly not in England, for while all comments, official and by the newspapers here, with exceptions on the part of a few liberal papers, are guarded, there is beneath the surface unmistakable uneasiness regarding Mussolini's ambitions, for the Italian premier is still a man of great energy and drive.

The crisis arose at an opportune time for Italy in many respects. Both Great Britain and France want Italy's support in dealing with the other absorbing difficulty—the settlement of the German reparations; both have good reasons to refrain from making themselves appear cool to Italy or her real ruler. Ripples are visible on the surface of affairs, which is characteristic of European politics in delicate situations, and sections of the press in both Paris and London hint that the papers of the two capitals haven't been instructed to make Italy as friendly as they might display.

British Fleet Moving.

The precincts of Downing street give no evidence of anything unusual stirring in world diplomacy. The prime minister is returning tonight from a French watering place and it is said he does not intend to curtail his vacation. Lord Curzon, foreign secretary, is returning tonight from France. It is asserted, according to previous plans.

Significant naval movements are reported. Lieutenant Colonel Amery, first lord of the admiralty, is proceeding to Malta, which is the British naval base in the Mediterranean, but he is on a tour of inspection, combined with a vacation which he announced several weeks ago.

One of the unusual features of this crisis is the lack of discussion of the crime which brooded it about the crime seems to have been almost forgotten under debate of the far-reaching interest it precipitated.

Destroyers are scouting between the islands of Greece, the islands made famous twenty-five centuries ago by Homer, which he sang his great epic the Iliad, describing the adventures of the shipwrecks, the wondrous encounters of his hero Ulysses, king of Ithaca.

on his return from the war in Troy.

Scylla is still there and Charibdis, those treacherous whirlpools which almost pulled the frail ships of the gallant Greek adventurers to the bottom. Where the Greek torpedo boats were throwing out their smoke screen yesterday to escape the giant submarines of the Italian fleet, there lived on an island the one-eyed giant Cyclops, the terror of ancient mariners until Ulysses broke his chains.

Son of Shoemaker Leads.

Benito Mussolini, son of a shoemaker, is directing the new conquests. Italy is again the conqueror. The emblem of the fascisti, the bundle of sticks, unbreakable in their union, was also the emblem carried ahead of the Roman armies behind the centuries. What that emblem meant not only the Greeks, but the Gauls and the Nervi, the Belg and the untamed Germanic tribes from the Teutoburger forests came to learn. It was the signal of victory. The magic sign of defeat for the enemy, the rallying center for the scattered conquering forces and it was hoisted whenever the Romans penetrated until they had the whole world at their feet.

Fascism, a bundle, the same emblem that can be found on the American dime, is again the emblem of Rome. And again Rome is imperial. Not only imperial in power, but imperial in ambitions.

It cannot be denied Italy has been waiting for the chance to start out on the campaign of conquest. In 1910 the young kingdom reconquered Tripoli, the region where the mightiest rival of Rome, Carthage, had once disputed the mastery of the world sea. Austria, which carried the official title of Holy Roman empire until 1918, has been swept away. Italy has stepped in her place. Mussolini and the super-patriots have the dream that the empire of the Caesars is to be reborn. It is a reconstruction of the old Roman empire, supreme on the Mediterranean, supreme in southern Europe.

A New Rubicon.

There is something of Caesar himself about this new fascist leader. Before declaring war, before taking the step that would prove the death of thousands of his soldiers, Caesar always was in deep thought, but once he saw that dallying meant defeat he was resolute and marched onward.

"Alia Jacta Est" (the die has been cast). These words spoken by the great Caesar himself before he crossed the Rubicon, in days gone by, were the words of Mussolini when he decided to engage Greece in war. "The die has been cast. And may the gods prosper our battles."

The battles of antiquity between the decadent Greek commonwealth of states and the colonists in Italy were not fought solely because Greece stood in the way on the path to world domination. But Greece represented the expression of a rival civilization. Her art, her science, her literature, her fine arts and philosophy. Rome, growing in material wealth until the granaries were full and the treasures running over with the tribute exacted from the barbarians, began to devote itself to the aesthetic. Her scholars turned to Greece. They wrote their treatises, their tragedies and their essays on philosophy in the language of a subject people.

Bitterness of Ages.

Cicero and Tertullian complained about it. Can beautiful things be said in the tongue of Latium? He complained in his book on "Old Age." He praised Caesar, who wrote his commentaries on the war in Gaul in Latin. He despised Herodotus who forsook the tongue of his mother for that of the Hellenes.

In the religious sphere the Romans obtained their ritual from the Greeks. Never did the Hellenistic doctrine flourish on the soil of its birth as it did in Italy.

Again and again the Greeks revolted against the Roman yoke. But never were the different states united in their action. The motto of the Caesars, divide and conquer, proved as well the downfall of the cultured Hellenes as it sounded the death knell of the savage Barbarians, who inhabited the mountainous regions of the Balkans.

And so today the age-old enemies are on the march. Greece with traditions of heroism that cannot be equaled anywhere in history. The pass of the Thermopylae when 600 stopped the advance of the Persian hordes numbering half a million; the battles of Alexander the Great, who founded an empire and spread Greek culture over the known world and to whom also the Italians owe their civilization, these are some of the things they remember.

Greece Is Weary.

But Greece is tired and small. Even times she has fought within the last half century. Italy is virile and strong. Italy has found a new national consciousness under Mussolini. Ten years ago she started on her imperial career. First she conquered Erythraea on the east coast of Africa, then came Tripoli in the north of Africa, on the spot where Rome's most hated and strongest rival, Carthage, once disputed her hegemony of the world. Trento and Trieste came during the great war. The zio, added to the provinces called the zio, the unredeemed territories in Dalmatia and the West Adriatic. The Greek islands are left to conquer. Mussolini has started to add them to his new empire and then nothing else will be left but Provence, the land where Nice, Mentone, Toulon and Marseilles are situated. They have her imperial career. All Atlanta Will Enjoy Holiday Monday as City Pays Tribute to Labor

Atlanta will cease work Monday. Wheels of industry will be silent, trafficking and commerce in the background, and the people will unite with a hundred million and more Americans from coast to coast in paying mighty tribute to the stalwart toilers of the land.

Labor day here will assume the proportions of a mighty carnival event—work will be forgotten as throngs participate in parades, tableaux, field day sports, races, dancing and feasting.

As a prelude to the day, will be the address at the auditorium Sunday by United States Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, who is to be here as a guest of the Atlanta Moose lodge. In his address the secretary is expected to deal with some of the most vital issues confronting American labor today.

Ten thousand people are expected to march in a gigantic parade, which will be the most spectacular event of Monday morning. The march through the city streets will start at 10:30 o'clock, and will take the following route:

Mitchell street to Whitehall, north to Peachtree and out Peachtree to Baker street; countermarch at this point, and returning on Peachtree street to Whitehall street to Alabama, turning east to Central avenue, where the parade will disband.

Twelve exciting races and other field events will be one of the attractions at a free entertainment to be given at Lakewood park during the afternoon in the automobile building, where an orchestra will play continually until late at night. A spectacular display of fireworks will take place in front of the grand stand at 8 o'clock.

Thousands of children are expected to attend the celebration at the park where a free pony and cart will be given away free of charge.

CURZON CONFERS WITH POINCARÉ

Paris, September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Lord Curzon, the British foreign minister, had a 25-minute talk with Premier Poincaré this evening just before the premier left for Brittany where he is to dedicate a statue in honor of Ernest Renan tomorrow.

WARM CAMPAIGNS FOR CITY OFFICES

The so-called city hall political ring and asserting that he wants to make the aldermanic board a stepping stone to the mayoralty, which he has sought without success before.

Ninth Ward Rally.

The ninth ward civic association meeting at Highland avenue school at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening will be addressed by several candidates.

The fire of the councilmanic campaign seems to have centered in the third ward where Fred C. Woodall, member of the police committee which has fought to oust Chief Beavers and A. Lamar Poole, is being supported by Dr. Carl C. Aven with the support of the police administration. Mayor Sims and Alderman W. R. Hartsfield have spoken in the ward to urge support for the administration.

Rallies have been arranged for

Monday night by supporters of both candidates. The Woodall meeting at the home of J. B. Morgan, 245 Hill street, at 8 o'clock Monday night, will be followed by a watermelon cutting, it is the final rally of his campaign and voters from all sections of the ward are invited to attend. Dr. Aven's Monday night meeting will be at the home of Dr. J. E. Davis, at 324 Canfield avenue, at 7:30 o'clock. He will speak again Tuesday night at the home of K. L. Carroll, at 322 South Boulevard.

S. A. Wardlaw, councilman from the first ward, is being opposed by Dr. Fred Morris. The number of voters qualified to participate in the primary is so small that both candidates have been making their races by personal work among the voters.

Warm Campaigns

Thomas L. Slappey and J. W. Weaver are running warm campaigns for the second ward councilmanic seat made vacant by Dr. Moon's entrance into the aldermanic lists. Both have pledged support to the administration in their campaign speeches.

A political rally has been arranged for 8 o'clock Monday evening at South Pryor Street school in the second ward. Paul S. Etheridge is to preside at the meeting. All four second ward candidates are to speak.

Claude L. Ashley, councilman from the fourth ward, is being opposed for reelection by J. A. White, who has been launching attacks on the so-called city political ring in his speeches. Ashley has been working quietly among his friends.

Dr. W. M. Etheridge, councilman from the fifth ward, is being opposed by two candidates, G. W. Lindsay and Charles R. Bennett. His friends assert that he will win in the first primary, while supporters of Lindsay and Bennett both expect to go into a second primary with him there.

Four Men Unopposed.

Dr. L. P. Baker in the fifth ward is unopposed, as are Horace Russell, T. Frank C. Taylor, and J. M. House in the tenth and J. M. House in the twelfth.

TOKIO IN RUINS BY FIRE AND QUAKE.

San Francisco, Cal., September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Tokio is a scene of utter desolation. The city has been completely destroyed. The loss of life is heavy, all traffic has been suspended and the flames are spreading to surrounding towns, according to a message received here tonight by the Radio Corporation of America from the superintendent of the company's station at Tomioka.

QUAKE MOVES UP AND DOWN

Osaka, Japan, September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—An earthquake shock lasting over six minutes was felt here at noon today. It was accompanied by an "up and down" movement.

Telephone and telegraphic communication with Tokyo has been interrupted. It is feared that the shock has had a serious effect in Tokyo and that great damage has been done there, in Yokohama and Kobe.

Reports indicate that the earth shocks have been most violent in the districts surrounding Mount Fuji, which itself is a dormant volcano. Mount Fuji is about sixty miles southwest of Tokyo.

CITY OF YOKOHAMA REPORTED ON FIRE

San Francisco, September 1.—(By the Associated Press.)—Practically the entire city of Yokohama is a scene of utter desolation. The city has been completely destroyed. The loss of life is heavy, all traffic has been suspended and the flames are spreading to surrounding towns, according to a message received here tonight by the Radio Corporation of America from the superintendent of the company's station at Tomioka.

REPEATED QUAKES IN TOKIO

Nagasaki, Japan, September 1.—A naval wireless message received at San Francisco from Funanaka says that there have been repeated earthquakes accompanied by a severe rainstorm in Tokyo today.

Another message reports that fire has broken out in Yokohama and that the inhabitants are seeking refuge in the ships in the harbor.

IMPETUOUS NEED SEEN

The Central park was declared by Lindsay Hopkins, Atlanta business man, to be the only practical answer to an imperative need, in a letter received Saturday by M. C. Kiser, chairman of the Central park committee of the Atlanta real estate board. The letter follows:

Recreation and repose is the keystone of good health. Good health is the keystone of success. Being able to get a little more out of time from the noise and bustle of an active city, such as Atlanta, which is of untold benefit to all who can step aside, even for a few moments, from their work.

If the city of Atlanta will develop a great central park near the heart of its greatest activity, to my mind it will be of benefit beyond calculation at this time.

The Georgia School of Technology stands as a great monument to those who conceived and stand as a great, potent power of success to those who carry it on. In between this great school and the busiest part of our city is the place where a park would seem most logical. This park is needed; but that this need for it twenty, thirty or fifty years hence is of great importance as a play place and a cool, quiet place for the children that they may get out of the rapidly multiplying elements they are building to care for the needs of the growing city.

To my mind this opportunity presents the only practical answer to this imperative need. Let us put this park on our credit and will do credit to our children and our children's children.

Yours very truly,
LINDSEY HOPKINS.

Report of Comptroller.

The issuance of $2,000,000 park bonds to be voted on at the September 5 election would increase the city's annual expenses 2 per cent to pay interest on the bonds and provide a fund to retire them, it was shown Saturday in a report issued by B. Graham West, city comptroller, at the request of the finance committee, of which Alderman L. N. Ragsdale is chairman.

The $2,000,000 bond issue would require the payment of $100,000 interest and $96,667 sinking fund on the city treasury next year. The amount of interest would be decreased annually as the bonds were retired. The sinking fund would have to be provided for 30 years to come.

The report showed that the city's total holding capacity this year is $20,510,000. Against this $18,461,000 bonds have already been voted and a second primary will be held.

The present bond limit actually at $7,450,000. The issuance of $2,000,000 park bonds would leave a bonding capacity of $5,450,000.

The report was made public by the finance committee with the following comment:

"The above estimates on revenue for 1923 and 1924 anticipate the collection of all taxes, which is not at all probable, and the amount of it falls amount to between $370,000.00 and $400,000.00 to be carried over to the next year."

"At the request of many citizens to members of council, the finance committee has had the above statement prepared to be given the public, not with any idea of influencing any one but to show the true financial condition of the city."

"Respectfully submitted, L. N. Ragsdale, chairman; J. L. McLendon, J. A. Conch, Jesse W. Armstrong, R. F. Aschbacher, H. W. Conley, R. H. Field, C. D. Knight, A. H. Cochran, finance committee."

GOB SEES PHOTO OF SLAIN BRIDE ADMITS MURDER

Norfolk, Va., September 1.—Confronted with photographs of the body of his murdered bride, Fred Conley, 21-year-old sailor, of Irving, Texas, this afternoon signed a statement for the police confessing that he slashed his wife's throat in the bedroom after she had threatened him with a butcher knife. Up to this time Conley had insisted that his wife had killed herself.

The tragedy, the young sailor said, was precipitated by attentions his wife had received from other sailors. Conley is in custody on a murder charge. His father, H. W. Conley, is a farmer of Sheffield, Ala. Mrs. Conley was Miss Ruth Owens, of Sneads, Fla., and was married to the sailor at Marianna, Fla., last June. She was 19 years old.

Conley has been in the navy about a year, and is attached to the U. S. S. Isherwood, now at the navy yard here. He told the police that four years ago he served a term of eleven months in the Illinois state reform school at Pontiac for a minor offense.

MANY AMERICANS IN YOKOHAMA

Washington, September 1.—Reports of a severe earthquake and fire in Yokohama, Japan, caused unusual anxiety here today because of the large number of Americans who make their homes in that city.

It is estimated that more than a thousand citizens of the United States who have business connections in Tokyo live in the section reported affected by the conflagration. More than half of all Americans in that part of Japan are said to have chosen Yokohama as their place of residence. It is only a half hour's ride from the capital.

Aside from the record made by the earth shock on the powerful seismograph at Georgetown university, the first news of the disaster reached Washington in press dispatches. Neither the Japanese embassy nor the state department had heard of it through their official dispatches, nor had the American Asiatic fleet made any report to the navy department.

The seismograph at Georgetown showed that the earthquake was of an extremely severe character, lasting five hours. Father Tondorf, in charge of the instrument, estimated after a first reading that the disturbance centered 6,500 miles away from Washington, but after a more detailed computation he placed the distance at 6,300 miles.

Tossing Bricks Woman Routs Crowd of Men

Saturday night a pretty young woman strolled down town in a fighting mood. When Policeman Sam C. Johnson bundled her into an auto twenty minutes later and whisked her away to the city jail. Here is what happened at Houston and Ivy streets:

One barber shop minus the plate glass window which has heretofore graced its front.

Several bricks and fragments of the glass front scattered over the barber shop floor and over the street.

A dirt sidewalk where had been a brick sidewalk.

A bicycle with a rear wheel smashed beyond all hope of redemption.

The trouble began about 9:30 o'clock. A young man in natty attire stood in front of the barber shop smoking a cigarette.

Then came along the young woman, and when she saw him, according to witnesses, she shrieked, "You have ruined my home!"

Here is the story told police as to what followed: picking up a loose brick from the sidewalk she hurled it at his head. He dodged, and the brick crashed through the plate glass, falling only a few inches short of a barber and his customer.

When the proprietor, B. C. McDuffe, rushed out to protest, he was greeted with a similar missile.

Passersby began to congregate. An effort to hold her was made. She wriggled from the hold of her captors and prized fresh ammunition from the sidewalk and declared war on the crowd, including a special officer.

For several minutes she held her ground despite all attempts to bring about her capture, until Policeman Johnson appeared.

At sight of the uniformed officer, the young woman calmed somewhat. She consented to follow him to an automobile commandeered to take her to headquarters. As it drove through the crowd the fair prisoner opened the door, stuck her foot through the opening and sent a curious newsboy sprawling with a vicious kick.

At police station she was docketed: "Mrs. R. H. Myers—Aged 25—Drunk—$100 bond—Address, refused."

Daredevil Flirts With Death Here In Making Film

The "daredevil" wanted by the Atlanta safety council to prepare a series of films depicting the dangers on the congested streets in the thick of traffic rush, has been found. He is no other than Lewis Nolan, assistant secretary of the Atlanta Motor club, who has taken more chances in the last week than Doug Fairbanks or Harold Lloyd in his "Safety Last."

In the course of the week when the Atlanta safety council wanted to prepare a film showing the dangers to pedestrians on the crowded streets, Mr. Nolan took part in several feats of reckless driving. It is nothing short of a miracle that he and his car have emerged from the many narrow escapes without meeting with some sort of catastrophe.

One of the stunts involved rolling down sideways from steep embankment on Simpson street, near the place where several had automobile accidents had happened.

Real Work Ahead.
The stunt for which a real "daredevil" was wanted is scheduled for next week. The safety council advertised for a man, who would not be afraid to portray in as realistic a way as possible the dangers of driving which leads to head-on collisions. And so Mr. Nolan has stepped forward again with the promise that he will actually drive his car full speed into a rapidly advancing street car.

The safety council, waging its all-year-round campaign to reduce traffic accidents, believes the educational value of a motion picture showing how many varied types of accidents are caused by carelessness of driver or pedestrian or both, has had its men plant their camera in the midst of busy traffic on several occasions and at several points. But real accidents, though they occur often enough, have an exasperating habit of taking place where nobody is looking, so it became necessary to set the stage for some of them.

Amulance Dashes Up.
The realism of the scenes being filmed was indicated Saturday when "daredevil" Nolan drove past a standing street car at Peachtree street and Forrest avenue, just as B. A. Heidt, director for the film company, alighted and was apparently struck by the automobile. Mr. Heidt did a realistic fall, the effect being heightened by the red ink from a sponge which promptly covered his countenance. So many bystanders rushed to his assistance that the "close up" which followed was almost spoiled, and before the crowd had been cleared away, an ambulance, summoned in haste by a passing pedestrian who had not waited to investigate, arrived, intent on obtaining a patient.

The film is expected to be completed this week, and announcement of its exhibition at a prominent theater, under the auspices of the Atlanta safety council, will be made soon afterward. It is one of the many efforts the council, under the leadership of its president, Judge Shepard Bryan, is carrying on in its anti-accident campaign.

WILL HONOR DR. SEAY AT SPECIAL PROGRAM

A special program has been prepared for the 11 o'clock morning service of the West End Baptist church today to celebrate the third anniversary of the passing of Dr. Warren Mosby Seay. Musical numbers of the program will be under the direction of Miss Bartholomew, choral director. Since Dr. Seay has been identified with the church more than 300 members have been added to the church roll and an addition to the Sunday school room, which will provide a seating capacity of 600 more pupils, has just been completed.

Some "Pointers" Given To Youthful Merchant

John Crawford giving some advice to John Cook, 17, who is M. Rich & Brothers company's youngest buyer.

An absolutely new departure in store management and probably something unheard of in Atlanta business circles has been decided upon by the firm of M. Rich & Bros. Co. Upon first sight an efficiency expert might frown upon the subject, but he will have to admit that the end in view is no less encouraging and helpful as it is radical.

John Cook, aged 17, is going to New York with a buyer for his own development and encouragement. He is probably the youngest person ever sent from Atlanta on such a mission. According to officials at the big department store, John Cook has the instinct of a natural-born merchant. It is even said around the store that Johnnie has ideas in regard to details of promoting sales and merchandising that would do credit to some old-timers. The trip to New York comes to Cook as a reward for his efforts and his wholehearted interest in the business.

While Johnnie is probably the youngest buyer ever sent out John Crawford, age 87, is probably the oldest silk and dress goods salesman in Atlanta. He has been selling goods of Whitehall street for 55 years. He has been in the silk department of the Rich store for 35 years and was only recently retired on full salary.

Pair Talk Over Trip.
A few days ago Crawford was strolling around the store, for he still takes an active interest in the business, and he met Johnnie Cook. He congratulated the boy on his success.

"Johnnie, I understand the firm is going to send you to New York on business," said Mr. Crawford. "Yes, sir, I am going Saturday by Charleston and coming back by rail." "Well, you are certainly the youngest chap I ever heard of being sent to New York on a business trip, but I think it is simply remarkable. Are you going to buy merchandise?" "Well, not exactly, I am going along with Mr. Sherman, the buyer of my department, to assist him, as I am anxious to learn the New York market." "Well, I am glad to see you making such headway. I want to tell you, Johnnie, that the boys and girls working in the stores these days have wonderful opportunities if they will only avail themselves and look to the future. It is very different from when I was your age working in a store. I would have to work until 9 or 10 o'clock in the evening. I want to tell you that the boys of today don't know what real work is, we had to dig down deep and scratch hard for a living. We had to open the store early to take care of the farmers that would come to town late in the evenings in their wagons with their products to sell. The ox-mule-drawn wagons would be loaded with produce of all kinds. They would park overnight in wagon yards where now stand some of our immense office buildings."

ATLANTAN PRAISED BY NEW YORK MAYOR

Israel Lefkoff, an Atlanta product, and a graduate from Oberlin university, 1920, has made such marked progress as a professor in the public schools of New York, that Mayor Hylan personally congratulated him on the efficiency of his classes at the close of the last term.

Mr. Lefkoff is now in Atlanta for a ten-day vacation, and is visiting his parents at 248 Grant street.

MARIETTA TO DECIDE SCHOOL BOND ISSUE

Marietta, Ga., September 1.—(Special.)—Within the next few weeks the Marietta people will vote on a $300,000 bond issue for the erection of a modern high school building. The schools of Marietta have almost doubled in size in the past ten years, and a new high school is badly needed. The proposed building will have the most up-to-date equipment.

Atlanta Chamber Enters Fire Prevention Contest

On the invitation of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce has entered the nation-wide fire waste contest which is being conducted in the United States among chambers of commerce and other civic organizations. It was announced Saturday. The contest will be retroactive to January 1, 1923. Fire prevention week will be observed from October 7 to October 13, the announcement said.

The Atlanta chamber, under the leadership of E. Arthur Haas, of Haas & Howell, will undertake to place Atlanta among the winners when the judges award the prizes which it is the purpose of the national body to give.

For the purpose of competing in the contest, chambers of commerce are divided into classifications by the national chamber as follows: Cities of over 100,000 population, cities between 50,000 and 100,000 population, cities between 20,000 and 50,000 population and cities under 20,000 population.

Basis of Awards.
Chambers of commerce will be judged on their relative accomplishments during the year and graded on the following basis: Actual accomplishments in reducing fire loss 40 per cent; educational activities 30 per cent; and permanent improvements in protection and construction, 30 per cent.

In addition to the prizes awarded to the chamber with the highest rating in each town of the four classes, a grand prize will be awarded to the chamber with the highest rating, regardless of classification. A board of three nationally prominent men will be named to decide upon the winners.

"Fire last year claimed almost half as many Americans as were actually killed in battle during the world war," said Elliot E. Goodwin, vice president of the national chamber. "Our property loss for the same period would have paid over half the interest on our national debt, and our fire losses this year are higher than ever."

The loss of life and property by fire can be reduced. Chambers of commerce, with fire prevention committees, located in cities of over 20,000 population have proved this. During last year the average per capita fire loss in these cities was 30 per cent less than the national per capita loss.

HIERS PLANS TO SPEND VACATION IN ATLANTA

Walter Hiers, popular film comedian and native Georgian, will come to Atlanta, accompanied by his wife, for a brief vacation next Wednesday, according to a letter received from the actor by Howard Kingsmore, manager of the Howard theater.

Mr. Hiers has just concluded a tour of a group of theaters at which he made personal appearances, the letter said. Before returning to Hollywood to resume his screen work he will visit relatives and friends here.

On September 17, he will begin work on his new picture, "Burning Barriers."

Mr. and Mrs. Hiers will reach Atlanta from Decatur, Ill., Wednesday night at 7 o'clock, and will remain here through Saturday.

Freak Ear of Corn.
The first freak vegetable to make its appearance at The Constitution office this season was exhibited to the news department Saturday.

It was a normal-sized, roasting ear around which were grown seven smaller ears, each perfect in formation.

The grand possessor was H. T. Moore of R. F. D. No. 1, Conley, Ga., who operates a booth at the Farmers' market, adjoining the auditorium.

17 NEW BOND ISSUES NEAR COMPLETION

SURVEY SHOWS GREAT TRANSFER TO NEW QUARTERS

Fifteen New Bond Issue School Buildings Will Be Occupied This Year, Others Soon Afterwards.

BY STEWART F. GELDERS.

The school bond building program in Atlanta will have resulted by the end of the first month of the ensuing school year in withdrawing 9,175 white and 6,800 negro children from buildings that had been called either fire or disease traps and in housing them in the 15 most modernly designed and most stoutly constructed school buildings ever used in the south, 11 buildings for white children and 4 for negroes.

That, in brief, is a summary of the findings in a thorough and painstaking inspection made by a Constitution reporter last week of the bond issue school projects in Atlanta, of the books and records of the department of education, and of the books and records of the auditor of the school building program in the office of the supervising architect.

In addition to these buildings the city now has to show for its bond money the rapidly fleshing skeleton of the Booker T. Washington Junior high school for negroes on West Hunter street, the steadily rising steel and concrete frame work of the Henry W. Grady high school for boys on Tenth and Jackson, a slowly increasing excavation on the face of the Benjamin M. M. high school for girls, and at least $30,000 cash balance reserved for completing the excavation and starting the work on the school building.

These are statements of incontrovertible fact.

The persons best informed on the school situation Saturday asserted further that the negro junior-senior high school will be ready for occupancy by December 31, 1923, and that the two white senior high schools will be ready for occupancy by September, 1924. They asserted that enough funds are now available for making the negro school and the boys' high school ready for occupancy and that enough will be derived from savings on the other 17 projects, sale of abandoned school lands, and special appropriations from 1924 current revenues, to make the girls' high school ready for occupancy for next year.

Those three would house an additional 4,000 pupils—1,000 negroes and 3,000 whites—bringing the total of pupils to be housed in bond issue schools up to nearly 20,000 by the time the 1924 school year is well under way. The prospective availability of the two white senior high schools, however, has not been admitted in all quarters and has been the subject of a prolonged controversy between the mayor and the school authorities.

More controversy has developed over the actual "stages of completion" of those schools which are to be ready for occupancy. Some of this has resulted simply from misunderstanding of the school program.

Built on Unit System.

The board of education has surveyed its bond of nearly 50,000 children and laid its plans much as a thirty young father might plan a home. In a few years, however, little John and Mary will need separate rooms. A few years more and a front parlor must be provided for Mary's beaux. A few years more and both of them will be married and need separate homes of their own.

The first unit of four rooms is built; then, when needed, an L is built for John's room; a few years more and for Mary's parlor. A few years more and each builds a new four-room home that grows in kind.

The first units of the new schools have been built, and will be ready for occupancy this year. They will suffice for this year. All the double sessions have been eliminated in white schools; classes that were held last year in church basements, fire engine houses, and shanties, ramshackle wooden timber lofts, private dwellings and other unsatisfactory places, will be housed this year in modern, fireproof, sanitary, efficient school buildings. They will suffice for this year. The junior high schools this year take up the slack in the overcrowding in high schools, and the former high schools are being enlarged, changed or replaced or enlarged, and in high schools.

For Next Two Years.

Next year the new high schools will be occupied, permitting abandonment of the present girls' high, boys' high and Tech High buildings and the employment of the present Commercial High building as a southern junior high school. The following year, at latest by 1926, the natural growth of the school population will make expansion of the present plant necessary again. That, however, does not immediately concern a survey of the expenditure of the 1921 bond issue funds, although it will be more largely by adding to the school built and to be built with the 1921 bond issue.

Schools Are Substantial.

Each of these 15 schools is built of concrete, brick, steel, hollow tile, masonry and masonry. The concrete used only for class room doors and as a surface for the floors. The weight of each building is borne by steel and concrete. The doors have no plumb and steamfitting workmen, who had no part in the concrete work, told the reporter that it was the hardest concrete they had ever encountered.

Exterior Walls and Walls.

The exterior walls and all walls which bear weight are of brick of uniform size and of hollow tile, which is cheaper and has advantages of maintaining a uniform temperature. Partitions are of plastered steel lath, a stout and coarse screen covered with plaster. The floors are of concrete slabs covered with ample flooring nailed to strips set in the concrete. The buildings are as nearly indestructible as modern construction engineering has found how to make them. They should remain in good condition for at least 50 years at a minimum cost for upkeep.

Maximum of Safety.

The buildings are designed for a maximum of safety. In addition to being practically fire proof in themselves, they are provided with stair wells which are divided from the halls and classrooms by brick walls and metal doors, making them fireproof and smokeproof. All exterior doors open outward and are equipped with panic-proof handles. The doors have no handles inside but are opened by pressure downward on metal bars placed at a height to strike an average child about at the breast. The doors cannot be locked to prevent escape. They can be locked to prevent entrance.

No exterior fire escapes are provided.

Because the stair wells themselves are completely protected fire escapes. Double hand rails, one placed for convenience of small children and one for larger children, make the stairs easy to climb and descend. No building will ever be more than three stories high, and the only three floors will be on buildings placed on steep pieces of land, where the conformation of the ground forces the lower side to extend three stories. In every case, the classroom arrangement places the smaller children on the lower floors.

Efficiency Is Aid.

The maximum of efficiency has been obtained by scientific attention to the location of the buildings, the arrangement of classrooms. The buildings have been placed to make the best possible use of the sunlight. Each classroom is arranged so that light comes in through five large windows on the pupil's left. Each regular classroom is a standard unit, with five windows and seats 45 pupils. This number has been found to be the efficient class unit that can be handled by one teacher. Economies in operating are effected by the new schools by removing pupils from auxiliary classrooms which would not hold that many pupils.

Special classrooms larger than the standard.

Special classrooms larger than the standard, have been provided for special classes, such as domestic arts and sciences, drawing, and smaller ones for special classes in the backward or of precocious pupils. Educational efficiency is attained by weeding out from the regular classes pupils either unable to keep up with their work or able to advance more rapidly than the average. Special class work will eliminate failures in studies, which are expensive to the school system because they keep the child in school for an additional term, or year. They will also make it possible to send precocious pupils through school in less than the ordinary time.

Medical Unit's Purpose.

Efficiency is also attained through medical units, which have been installed in each school. Without charge to the school system, physical health clinics regularly in the new schools to examine children for defects which may interfere with their progress. Where parents can not afford to pay for correction of defects, arrangements will be made to correct them at Grady hospital, or at the regular dental clinics. The medical units include dressing rooms, office, nurse's room and waiting room.

Each school is provided with a lunchroom.

Each school is provided with a lunchroom where food will be sold at cost. These units, modeled after those in other cities, will be self-sustaining.

Each school will have a kindergarten unit if the patrons of the school will register as many as 20 children of kindergarten age. If no kindergartens are demanded, the kindergarten space will be used for regular class rooms.

Administration units are provided.

Each school has a heating plant adequate to serve it. It is carried to the site of ultimate completion after the city has grown enough to demand it, and a modern system of direct and indirect ventilation, fans will run at maximum speed, change the air in each room in one minute's time.

Because of the fact that all the schools are supplied with medical units, heating units and lunch room units in their present stages of completion, the additional units necessary to fulfill the ultimate plan will not be as costly per pupil of housing capacity as was the building of the first unit. The plan shows that the cost of the land and of the heating plant together, items for which there will never be additional cost, run for 20 per cent to 40 per cent of the total cost of most of the schools.

The ideal size for an elementary school is big enough to house 1,200 pupils.

Each of the bond issue schools is designed to be built ultimately to that size, as the territory it serves grows. In school population, maximum economy in supervision of school work and maintenance of school plant can be obtained in that size. When a school reaches that size, it should be complete and no growth in school population housed in a new school placed in a location to give more convenient service to a part of the territory and to grow ultimately into a 1,200 pupil school.

English Avenue Is Model.

The only complete or model school in Atlanta, by the way, is to be the English avenue school which will be in September with a class room capacity of 1,200, and all the adjuncts of a complete modern school, kindergarten, auditorium, gymnasium, library, lunch room, and other units described in the latter part of this survey where the schools are discussed one by one.

The building has been done under a form of contract perfected by A. Ter

Brown, the supervising architect, which is said to be the best nearly fool and knife-proof form of contracts in existence. The federal reserve bank was built under it and a few other recent projects have been built under it.

The bidding contractor named what is called an "upset" or guaranteed top price and bonded himself to do the work for that price. He paid cash for each item of material and labor. On all he saved and the "upset" price of the bid he was given one-fourth, the other three-fourths of the saving being turned back into the general building fund.

Each item is checked.

The bid included an itemized schedule of costs of all items entering into the work and the contractor was not permitted by the auditor to charge the city more for any item than his estimated cost schedule designated. The work was supervised by the project architect whose professional reputation was involved in the work, and by the supervising architect, who had the same interest. No deviation from specifications was permitted and the contractor's selfish interest stimulated him to do the work with the least possible waste and to make the best possible bargain for labor and material in order that a saving might be effected out of which he could receive a 25 per cent bonus.

This system, those in charge say, in some of the contractors actually losing money on the work and in all the others effecting substantial savings from the price paid to those who are footing the bills. They are all numbered as projects for reference.

Senior High Schools.

Project No. 1 is the Henry Grady high school for boys which will not be ready for occupancy until next year. It is located on Jackson and Tenth streets with about 20 acres of campus; it is to cost about $350,000, of which $139,250 has already been spent for land and construction up to August 1, and the rest of which is available. The first unit will house 1,500 pupils.

Project No. 2 is the Bernard M. M.

high school for girls on Rossia street, which will not be ready for occupancy before next year, and for which bids are to be opened September 7. $24,000 of bond funds and a special appropriation of $25,000 for grading from Fulton county has already been made available for it; of this sum, $10,502 had been spent August 1 for grading. The first unit will house 1,500 pupils.

Project No. 3 is the Booker T.

Washington Junior-senior high school for negroes on West Hunter street. It will not be ready for occupancy before the last of December this year. It is to cost about $305,000, of which about $250,000 has already been spent and the rest of which is available. It is situated on a 20 acre tract of land not touched yet by improved streets.

Negro property owners are paying for the opening of a street from West Hunter directly to the school entrance, about 100 yards, and are planting trees and shrubs along the new entrance. As a result of this work by negro patrons, it will have a beautiful approach. Its capacity will be 1,000 pupils of seventh through the twelfth grades. It will be the first public high school for negroes in Atlanta. The building will include 11 standard class rooms, 1 cooking room, 4 laboratories, a library, music room, general shops, a sewing room, 2 study halls and the units common to all schools, medical, administrative and lunch room.

Project No. 4 is the Daniel C.

O'Keefe northwest junior high school on Techwood drive. It will be ready for occupancy before October 10. It is to cost about $240,000, of which $150,000 has already been spent and the rest of which is available. It is situated on a five-acre tract of land and will house 1,150 pupils of seventh, eighth and ninth grades. These will come from the territory now served by the Samuel M. Inman, Walker and Davis elementary schools, except the new Inman, Faith and Gordon schools, it has helped the new schools to relieve congestion by absorbing the seventh and eighth grades from the old schools. It is one of the three schools in which an old building was utilized as a first unit, incorporated in a forward-looking plan to permit ultimate development into such a complete school plant.

The enlargement of the school will be taken out of the basement rooms, teachers' rest rooms, library, two portable schools, the basement of a neighboring church and a new building on the second floor of the wooden Battle Hill school. It is situated on two acres of land and will house 750 pupils this year.

Project No. 14 is Joel Chandler

Harris, or Lucile avenue white elementary school on Lucile avenue. It will be ready for occupancy before October 10. It is to cost about $240,000, of which $150,000 has already been spent and the rest of which is available. It is situated on a five-acre tract of land and will house 1,150 pupils of seventh, eighth and ninth grades. These will come from the territory now served by the Samuel M. Project No. 15 is the Calhoun white elementary school replacing the old Calhoun school on Calhoun street. It will be ready for occupancy before October 10. It is to cost about $240,000, of which $150,000 has already been spent and the rest of which is available. Project No. 16 is English avenue school on English avenue and Fox street, another project in which an old school was renovated and added to as a unit in a general plan for a model school. English avenue school is the only one in Atlanta which has been completed in its present form. It is situated on a five-acre tract of land and will house 1,150 pupils of seventh, eighth and ninth grades. These will come from the territory now served by the Samuel M. school at the corner of Rawson and Cooper, which was made ready for occupancy last week at a cost of nearly $175,000. It is situated on a two-acre tract of land and will house 475 pupils, its maximum capacity this year. It is intended ultimately as a replacement of the old Formwalt school, which, however, is still to be used this year. Three old buildings used as annexes have been abandoned and some of the pupils formerly housed in the condemned Crew street annex have been restricted to attend the new Formwalt. It includes 10 standard class rooms, a mechanical art and industrial art room, a mechanical drawing room and the usual administrative, lunch room, kindergarten, library and teachers' rest room units.

in which an old building was made into a new school. It is situated on a five-acre tract of land and will house 1,150 pupils of seventh, eighth and ninth grades. These will come from the territory now served by the Samuel M. Inman, Walker and Davis elementary schools, except the new Inman, Faith and Gordon schools, it has helped the new schools to relieve congestion by absorbing the seventh and eighth grades from the old schools. It is one of the three schools in which an old building was utilized as a first unit, incorporated in a forward-looking plan to permit ultimate development into such a complete school plant.

The enlargement of the school will be taken out of the basement rooms, teachers' rest rooms, library, two portable schools, the basement of a neighboring church and a new building on the second floor of the wooden Battle Hill school. It is situated on two acres of land and will house 750 pupils this year.

be completed this week at a cost of nearly $220,000. It stands on nine acres of campus and has a normal seating capacity of 1,000, but will be forced to accommodate 1,500 through double sessions. It replaces the old frame Pittsburg school, which was rented by the city from its janitor, four shanties used as class rooms and the unheated basement of a negro church and eliminates triple sessions in its territory. It includes 16 standard class rooms, domestic arts room, manual training room, one general shop room, one sewing room, two special class rooms and the usual administrative, lunch room, kindergarten, library and medical units.

Howard Negro School.

Project No. 11 is the David T. Howard negro elementary school at 110 Houston street, a replacement for the Morris and Houston schools, both of which were condemned as unsafe and unsanitary and at both of which double and triple sessions were held last year. It will be completed this week at a cost of nearly $238,000. It has 27 acres of grounds and will house normally 1,000 elementary pupils, but will be forced to operate double sessions to house 2,000.

Johnson Negro School.

Project No. 12 is Edwin P. Johnson negro elementary school at Martin and Fulton, which will be finished this week and cost about $244,000. It has three acres of campus and will accommodate about 800 pupils normally, but will house 1,000 this year with double sessions. It is a replacement of the old Johnson school, built by a northern philanthropist in 1888 and which was supplemented by one dwelling and one portable school. It includes 12 standard class rooms, a mechanical art and industrial art room, one industrial art room, two special class rooms, administrative, kindergarten, lunch room and medical units.

Ware Negro School.

Project No. 13 is Edmond A. Ware elementary school for negroes on University place, to be ready for occupancy this week as a replacement of the Ware and Mitchell Street schools, both of which were operating triple sessions in condemned buildings. It will cost about $230,000 and will include 14 standard class rooms, a mechanical art and industrial art room, one industrial art room, two special class rooms, administrative, kindergarten, lunch room and medical units.

MERCER LAW SCHOOL RAISES REQUIREMENTS

Beginning with the 1924-25 session of the Mercer University Law School two years of college work will be required before entrance. This change in the requirement for admission of students is made to conform with the requirements of the leading law schools of the United States. The 1923 fall term opens September 24. Mercer is making application for admission in the association of American Law Schools this fall. The association demands certain standards of instruction and preparation of students. The Mercer University Law School has met and conforms to all of the requirements of the association. The law library is one of the most adequate in the south, having at present more than 5,000 volumes actually in use.

Dean William H. Fish, who for many years has been the esteemed chief justice of the supreme court of Georgia, heads the Mercer university faculty. The subjects offered by Dean Fish in the approaching year will be Georgia practice, wills and administration of estates, bills and notes, mortgages and evidence. Judge William Hamilton Felton, Jr., Judge Malcolm D. Jones and J. R. L. Smith will again give their courses in criminal law and procedure, domestic relations and the courses in equity. O. A. Park, editor of Park's Annotated Code of Georgia; Harry Strozier, secretary of the Georgia Bar association, and Judge T. N. Talley, master of chancery in bankruptcy court, will again give their courses in constitutional law, the courses in pleadings, insurance, federal courts and bankruptcy. Dr. John H. Moore, J. D. of the University of Chicago, will offer courses in contracts, quasi-contracts, damages, sales and conflict of laws.

The university announces new additions to the faculty in law in C. Baxter Jones, Yale, 1917, and Dr. Rufus C. Harris, Yale, 1923. Professor Jones will offer the courses in court and trial practice, equity, jurisdiction and pleading and commercial law. Dr. Harris is a doctor of jurisprudence of the Yale 1923 class, and will offer the courses of personal and real property, torts, titles, partnership and suretyship. Dr. Harris has been elected the secretary of the law school, and Dr. Moore is the librarian. The application of the Mercer University Law School for membership in the Association of American Law Schools is an important step to those interested in legal training and development of a character that approaches that given by the great eastern universities. Meeting the requirements of membership in this association by Mercer university insures the very best legal training for Georgia and southern men and women in the field of law.

SLEMP ASSUMES POST AS SCRIBE TO NEW PRESIDENT

Washington, September 1.—George B. Christian, Jr., ended today his more than two and a half years' service as secretary to the president, first under President Harding and since Mr. Harding's death, under President Coolidge.

Former Representative C. Bascom Slemph, recently selected by Mr. Coolidge as his secretary, will take up his new duties next Tuesday. Since leaving the white house, Mrs. Harding has been with Mrs. Edward M. McLean, wife of the Washington publisher, at the McLean country home near Washington, but will leave the middle of next week for Marion, to spend some time at the home there of Brigadier-General Charles E. Sawyer, white house physician. She plans later to travel for a time, if her health will permit.

COVINGTON SCHOOLS TO OPEN TOMORROW

Covington, Ga., September 1.—(Special.)—Everything is in readiness for opening of the Covington public and high schools on Monday, September 3, and the prospects seem bright for one of the most successful years in the history of the school.

Stanley A. Adams, who will teach science in the high school, will also organize football, basketball and track teams and hopes to arouse in the boys of the school increased interest in clean, healthful athletics. Last year there were 510 pupils enrolled in the white school, and the prospect is for an increase this term. Covington public schools rank with the best in the state and Professor Zaden has one of the finest corps of teachers to be found.

OFFICERS ARE WARNED AGAINST ARMY DOGMA

Washington, September 1.—Army officers attending the new class convened today at the army war college were warned in an address by Secretary Weeks that "there is no devotion in which the danger of abstraction is so great as in a military establishment. Let it stifle their natural initiative, the school, well said, army officers must be 'exceptionally alert to protect their minds from dogma.'"

TEN PERSONS INJURED IN WRECK ON C. B. & Q.

Chicago, September 1.—Nine passengers and the engineer were injured, none seriously, according to reports here, when Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train No. 12, southbound on the Healdston division, ran into an open switch at Hagen, Ill., this morning. The engineer also was injured. The train ran into a string of box cars after striking the open switch. How the switch happened to be left open has not been ascertained.

Array of World's Greatest Artists To Appear In Series of Winter Concerts in Atlanta

Shown above is a group of the greatest artists of the age, who will appear in a series of winter concerts in Atlanta under the auspices of the Atlanta Music club, beginning October 30 and ending March 10. Top, left, shows Ignace Paderewski, former president of Poland and world's greatest pianist. He has not been heard in Atlanta in many years. Top, center, Louis Gravenius, famous baritone, regarded as one of the greatest artists on the concert stage; top, right, Rosa Raisa, brilliant dramatic soprano of the Chicago Opera company. She will be heard in the opening concert on October 30, with Giacomo Rimini, Chicago Opera company tenor. Middle row, left, Alberti Salvi, renowned harpist; right, Erika Morini, celebrated violinist. Bottom row, left, Ignace Friedman, noted Polish pianist; right, Flonzaley quartet.

Greatest Artists of the Age On Musical Program Here

Presenting to the people of Atlanta a series of musical events in which the greatest stars of the country will be introduced, the Atlanta Music club announces eight attractions, making up the civic concert series to be given in the city auditorium, while the remaining concerts will be included in the series intine and held in the auditorium of the Atlanta Woman's club.

The opening event will be the appearance of Miss Rosa Raisa, the brilliant soprano of the Chicago grand opera company, who will delight Atlanta's audiences with her splendid voice, with Giacomo Rimini, famous tenor, also of that city. This event will be on October 30, and promises to be a treat to Atlanta music lovers. The closing feature of the series will be the Ukrainian chorus, which will appear on March 10, bringing to this city an attraction of dramatic splendor.

Making up the complete list of the attractions, with the dates of their appearance in the city, are the following musicians and artists: Civic concert series, Rosa Raisa and Giacomo Rimini, October 30; Ignace Paderewski, pianist, November 28; Louis Gravenius, baritone, December 11; Erika Morini, January 2; Ukrainian chorus, March 10. Series intine, Alberti Salvi, harpist, November 3; Ignace Friedman, pianist, January 12; Flonzaley quartet, February 9.

Paderewski Coming. Adding to the interest of this list of attractions is the fact that only one of the famous artists have previously been heard by local audiences, while those known to Atlanta music lovers occupy places of great esteem and popularity. None of the above musicians have appeared in the south for several seasons. Perhaps the greatest event of the season will be the appearance of the famous Polish pianist, Paderewski, who, though known to many Atlantans who have heard his wonderful performances, has not appeared before music lovers in this city for several years. His last appearance here was in 1900, when he played at the Baptist tabernacle before an enormous gathering. Paderewski, after forsaking his keyboard for the folio of a statesman, and serving the interests of his country in a political way, returned to the piano only at the intercession of the music loving world. He comes to Atlanta in November, playing at the city auditorium, which will doubtless find its capacity taxed to seat the great throng wishing to hear him. Paderewski, notwithstanding his association of musical work, is said to have lost nothing of his marvelous technique, and his wonderful power to produce melody from the instrument of which he is the world's acknowledged master.

Two of the other events in the concert series attracting wide attention and interest will be Rosa Raisa, sensational success of the Chicago grand opera, and Erika Morini, famous violinist, of New York, whose fame as a musical prodigy has spread over the continent.

Miss Raisa An Artist. Miss Raisa is looked upon as one of the greatest dramatic sopranos, and her work in leading parts on the grand opera stage in the mid-west metropolis has been of the highest class, delighting thousands of music lovers who attend the performances in Chicago. Much of the great success of the Chicago grand opera is said to be due to the splendid voice and dramatic ability of this star. Miss Raisa has also scored great success before New York audiences, receiving the most favorable criticism from leading music critics of the metropolitan dailies, being especially approved of by Henry Fink, of the New York Evening Post, who said she is the great singer of her time. Accompanying Miss Raisa in her Atlanta concert will be Giacomo Rimini, talented tenor, also of the Chicago grand opera company, who has achieved much fame in many roles.

Erika Morini, brilliant young violinist, though just past her twelfth year, has gained for herself perhaps as great a measure of fame as could be desired by a musical star. An Austrian by birth, Miss Morini sprang into sudden fame by her wonderful work that has improved, it is declared, each day since her debut before an audience of critics and lovers of the violin in the metropolis. She played for a time as soloist with the great star, Miksch, when but 11 years of age, and has scored one sensational triumph after another in every country in which she has played.

The Ukrainian chorus, which has appeared in Atlanta, made its debut here during the past season, scoring a big hit with lovers of vocal music. This splendid group of singers, though limited in number, through perfect harmony and wonderful volume, gives the impression of being a mighty orchestra. This feature has been included in the series after many calls were insistently made for this organization.

Famous Baritone. The fifth number of the big series, and one that promises great success, is Louis Gravenius, the famous baritone, who is looked upon as one of the greatest artists of his line on the concert stage. He was also included in the series upon the demand of many Atlanta music lovers who insisted upon his appearance as one of the stars.

Ignace Friedman, Polish pianist, whose fame is nation-wide, comes here for his first appearance, but those who have heard his splendid performances upon the piano have given him great praise, assuring the lovers of piano music in this city a treat. He is said to be on a par with Joseph Hoffman, the great pianist, also of Poland, who has been popular on the American concert stage for many years.

Sale of Tickets. The public sale of tickets will not take place until the latter part of September; but those who desire to attend the series of winter concerts are now being permitted to send in their reservations so that they may secure prior choice of seats. The entire right, concerts, with a membership in the club are being offered for fifteen dollars.

Mrs. George Wright, of 886 West Peachtree street, the membership chairman of the club, is not enrolling subscribers members. A deposit of five dollars is required at this time to insure a place in the line for the subscribers' sale of tickets.

The Beautiful and Damned

By F. Scott Fitzgerald

"Anthony! Anthony!" He made a little clicking sound with his teeth and drew back as though to spring at her—then, changing his purpose, he looked wildly about him on the floor and wall.

"I'll kill you!" he was muttering in short, broken gasps. "I'll kill you!" He seemed to bite at the word as though to force it into materialization.

Alarmed at last, she made no further movement forward, but meeting his frantic eyes, took a step back toward the door. Anthony began to race here and there over the floor of the room, still giving out his single cursing cry. Then he found that he had been seeking—a stiff oaken chair that stood beside the table.

Uttering a harsh, broken shout, he seized it, swung it above his head and let it go with all his raging strength straight at the white frightened face across the room. . . . then a thick, impeding darkness came down upon him and blotted out thought, rage and madness together—with almost a tangible snapping sound the face of the world changed before his eyes.

Gloria and Dick came in at five and called his name. There was no answer—they went into the living-room and found a chair with its back smashed and lying in the doorway. They noticed that all about the room there was a sort of disorder—the rugs had slid, the pictures and bric-a-brac were upset upon the center-table. The air was sickly sweet with cheap perfume.

They found Anthony sitting in a patch of sunshine on the floor of his bedroom.

Before him, open, were spread the three big-stamp-books of his boyhood, and when they entered he was running his hand through a great pile of stamps that he had dumped from the back of one of them.

Looking up and seeing Dick and Gloria, he put his head critically on one side and motioned them back.

"Anthony," cried Gloria tensely, "we're won't! They reversed the decision."

"Don't come in," he murmured wanly, "you'll mess them. I'm sorting, and I know you'll step in them. Everything always gets messed."

"What are you doing?" demanded Dick in astonishment. "Going back to childhood? Don't you realize you've won the suit? They've reversed the decision of the lower courts. You're worth thirty millions!"

Anthony only looked at him reproachfully.

"Shut the door when you go out," he spoke like a pet child.

With a faint horror dawning in her eyes, Gloria gazed at him—"Anthony!" she cried, "what is it? What's the matter? Why didn't you come—why, who is it?"

"See here," said Anthony softly, "you two get out—now, both of you. Or else I'll tell my grandfather."

He held up a handful of stamps and let them come drifting down about him like leaves, vari-colored and bright, turning and fluttering gaudily.

upon the sunny air; stamps of England and Ecuador, Venezuela and Spain.

Victory. That exquisite heavenly irony which has tabulated the demise of so many generations of sparrows doubtless records the subtlest verbal inflections of the passengers of such ships as The Berengaria. And doubtless it was listening when the young man in the plaid cap crossed the deck quickly and spoke to the pretty girl in yellow.

"That's him," he said, pointing to a hunched figure seated in a wheelchair near the rail. "That's Anthony Patch. First time he's been on deck."

"Oh—that's him?"

"Yes. He's been a little crazy, they say, ever since he got his money, four or five months ago. You see, the other fellow, Shuttlesworth, the religious fellow, the one that didn't get the money, he locked himself up in a room in a hotel and shot himself."

"Ih, he did—"

"But I guess Anthony Patch don't care much. He got his thirty million. And he's got his private physician along in case he doesn't feel just right about it. Has she been on deck?" he asked.

The pretty girl in yellow looked around cautiously.

"She was seen a minute ago. She had on a Russian-sable coat that must have cost a small fortune."

"Sure, I know," agreed the man with the plaid cap. "She's not looking, though," he paused. "I guess or maybe he's got remorse about that fellow Shuttlesworth."

"But the man in the plaid cap was quite wrong. Anthony Patch, sitting near the rail and looking out at the sea, was not thinking of his money, for he had seldom in his life been really preoccupied with material things, nor of Edward Shuttlesworth, for it is best to look on the sunny side of these things.

No—he was concerned with a series of reminiscences, much as a general might look back upon a successful campaign and analyze his victories. He was thinking of the hardships, the insufferable tribulations he had gone through.

They had tried to penalize him for the mistakes of his youth! He had been exposed for ruthless misery, his very craving for romance had been punished, his friends had deserted him—even Gloria had turned against him. He had been alone, alone—facing it all.

Only a few months before people had been urging him to give in, to submit to mediocrity, to go to work! But he had known that he was justified in his way of life—and he had stuck it out staunchly.

Why, the very friends who had been most unkind had come to respect him, to know he had been right all along. Had not the Lacey and the Merediths and the Cartwright-Smiths called on Gloria and him at the St. Carlton just a week before they sailed?

Great tears stood in his eyes, and his voice was tremulous as he whispered to himself.

"I showed them," he was saying. "It was a hard fight, but I didn't give up and I came through!"
